Bids to Be Taken on Local Roads

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission said Tuesday it would open bids Sept. 29 on 15 projects totaling $5.6 million.

Included in the projects is construction of a District 2 Highway Department headquarters building in Pine Bluff at an estimated cost of $1.1 million.

Other projects, by County: CROSS — Surfacing of 34.9 miles on portions of Arkansas 1, 42 and 163.

ST. FRANCIS and CRITTENDEN — Surfacing of 10.5 miles of Arkansas 149 from the junction of 149 and U. S. 70 to Earle.

ASHLEY — Surfacing of 9.4 miles of Arkansas 8 north of the Louisiana state line.

ASHLEY, DREW and CHICOT — Surfacing of about 10 miles of Arkansas 165 beginning north of Montrose and extending north.

CHICOT — Grading, minor drainage work, one — beam span bridge and miscellaneous items on nearly one mile of Arkansas 278 from west of Chicot extending easterly on new location.

JEFFERSON — Grading, minor drainage structures, concrete pavement, one R. C. Plate girder bridge and curb and gutter work on 2.3 miles of U. S. 65 from southeast of Pine Bluff to Michigan Street in Pine Bluff.

HEMPSTEAD — Surfacing of 3.3 miles of Arkansas 299 south-easterly from the Emmet interchange.

HEMPSTEAD and NEVADA — Surfacing, one reinforced concrete box culvert and miscellaneous items on about five miles of Arkansas 355 beginning about one mile east of Patmos and continuing easterly.

CLARK — Surfacing, minor drainage structures and five bridges on 2.5 miles of Arkansas 51 beginning south of the junction with Arkansas 53 and continuing northerly and easterly, partly on new location.

FAULKNER — Surfacing of 6.5 miles of U. S. 65 from Conway to Springhill.

NEWTON — Surfacing of about 13.4 miles of Arkansas 7 from the junction of Arkansas 374 to one mile south of Marble Falls.

POINSETT — Grading, minor drainage structures, remodeling and extending existing bridge across Ditch No. 10 about five miles east of Harrisburg on Arkansas 14.

MISSISSIPPI — Traffic control signal work at three intersections in Blytheville.

POPE — Surfacing of selected portions of Arkansas 77, 124, 326 and 872 in the Russellville vicinity and the Arkansas Tech Campus.

Schools in Educational Survey

Hope Schools have been selected to participate in two educational surveys during the current school year. There has been, for the last few years, a growing awareness in all levels of education that there is a great lack of information concerning the individual differences in ability and attitudes of school children and parents' expectation of the school.

By involving a large segment of the school community, pupils, teachers, parents, administrators, Board of Education and Advisory Board members an effort will be made to develop a broader base for educational planning at the state and local level.

Those members of the community selected to participate in these surveys are urged to give their cooperation.

Red Nations Fall Behind

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty says Marxist nations such as Romania appear willing to grant concessions to American investors because they realize they are falling behind capitalist countries in business.

Yorty, recently returned from a global trade tour, told a luncheon audience Tuesday he found officials in Romania very eager for investment capital from free nations.

One Death in District Over Holiday

Captain Milton Mosier, District Commander for the Hope District for the Arkansas State Police reported that one person died in the district during the Labor Day weekend.

Mosier said statewide, there were 10 fatalities during the Labor Day holiday. This compares with 14 deaths over the same period a year ago.

Mosier said in a breakdown of enforcement action over the Labor Day holiday in the Hope District, there were 42 arrests for driving while under the influence of alcohol; 134 arrests for speeding; 70 hazardous arrests (other than speeding); 116 non-hazardous arrests; 226 light corrections, and 206 warnings. Troopers in the District rendered a total of 348 motorist assists for disabled vehicles.

Captain Mosier said in a further breakdown of enforcement action, statewide there were 205 arrests for D. W. I.; 1,457 arrests for speeding; 692 hazardous arrests (other than speeding); 615 non-hazardous arrests; 1,278 light corrections and 1,542 warnings. There was a total of 1,263 motorist assists for disabled vehicles. Counties comprising the Hope District are: Clark, Hempstead, Howard, LaFayette, Little River, Miller, Nevada, Pike, and Sevier.

Thinks Fathers Deserve Protection Just Like Any Other Organization

By BOB HARRING
Associated Press Writer
EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Fathers deserve protection.

If women's groups are liberating mama and youth organizations are protecting the kids, somebody ought to raise some concern about dear old Dad.

Day care centers spring mother from watching after the kids and new appliances eliminate housework. Boys and girls are pretaught and organized almost from the moment of conception to reach total utilization, full enjoyment, the complete absence of pain or frustration.

With all that going on, daddy ought to get his turn.

There needn't be any such formal association as the National Organization of Women—NOW—or Protection against Parents—PAP. But there should be at least some consideration given to the preservation and even encouragement of fathers, to the elimination of those things which make fatherhood less than totally pleasant sometimes.

Such considerations should be reasonable. It would be totally impractical, for instance, to come out against elimination of leftovers on Friday nights, or for prohibition of TV dinners or cold cuts on bridge club days

Court-ordered School Busing Starts With Isolated Incidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Court-ordered plans for school integration by busing have gone into operation in more Southern and Midwestern school districts with isolated incidents of protest.

Additional schools were scheduled to open today including the Mobile-Jefferson county schools, the largest system in Alabama with some 68,000 pupils, about 40 per cent of whom are black.

Pupils in Mobile report for half-day registration sessions and under a federal court order handed down in July some 6,300 will be bused across district lines to reduce racial imbalance.

In all some 28,000 will ride the buses to school, but most of them will be transported because they live two miles or more from their schools.

School officials in Pontiac, Mich., said they were satisfied with opening day attendance Tuesday of about 63 per cent of enrollment. They expressed confidence the figure would grow in the days ahead.

The most serious incident

Tuesday in Pontiac, where dynamite destroyed 10 buses eight days ago, was the arrest of nine women who sought to prevent the buses from leaving a parking lot.

School Supt. Dana Whitmer said security would be increased to prevent a repetition of a rash of attacks by black youths on 18 white students near Pontiac Central High School. He attributed the attacks to outsiders.

In Jackson, Miss., public school officials reported 28,277 children attended classes Tuesday under a new desegregation plan, with the number of students riding more than double the number who rode last year.

Asst. Supt. R.B. Dayton said attendance was down about 700 from last year's opening day but he attributed this to confusion over bus schedules and routes. "We'll have everything worked out by the end of the week," he said.

In Portsmouth, Va., public schools opened under a court-ordered busing plan with first day attendance about 2,000 less than expected. Of 25,000 pupils enrolled about 11,500 are to be bused.

A rally during school hours by the Portsmouth chapter of Save Our Neighborhood Schools drew 300 persons, many of them children. A spokesman said if the busing requirement was not lifted by Thursday the group would call for a "boycott of classes."

Several SONS groups from the Hampton Roads area planned to march at the Capitol in Washington today and to meet with congressmen.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Herbie Branscum Jr., president of the Arkansas Young Democrat Club, said Tuesday that at least six potential presidential candidates were expected to speak at the national convention of the Young Democrats Clubs of America to be held Nov. 17-20 at Hot Springs.

The convention will be the first time a YDC national convention has been held in Arkansas.

Branscum said those potential candidates attending included Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine; Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.; Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn.; Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.; and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Penalties for violation should be severe. The guy who sells a swing set in a crate ought to be sentenced to assemble an electric road racing set—without instructions. Leniency would be granting him all the parts.

It's possible that Congress and the various state legislatures would react slowly to these proposals, but not really too likely if you think about it.

After all, most elected officials are fathers, too.

U.S. Forces Attacking in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. forces attacked from land, sea and air today in support of a South Vietnamese drive toward the Laotian border south of the demilitarized zone.

No significant contact with North Vietnamese soldiers was reported in the third day of the operation by some 10,000 South Vietnamese troops, American artillery and 200 U.S. helicopters. Some enemy harassing attacks were reported, wounding an undisclosed number of South Vietnamese soldiers.

The South Vietnamese re-opened three fire bases and established four landing zones to the east and north of Khe Sanh. South Vietnamese officers in the field said there were no plans to reopen the Khe Sanh combat base, which served as the main operations base for the allied drive into Laos last February. The officers also said there were no plans to cross the border into Laos.

Col. Le Trung Hien, a spokesman for South Vietnamese headquarters in Saigon, said the forwardmost government troops were 15 miles from the Laotian border and 10 miles from Khe Sanh at last report.

In the heaviest raids in two weeks, more than a score of U.S. B52 bombers dropped 600 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese bunker complexes and storage sites encircling Khe Sanh.

Two U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers opened fire with their five-inch guns from positions in the Tonkin Gulf off the coast of Vietnam. And U.S. eight-inch howitzers just brought into Vandegrift combat base on Highway 9 northeast of Khe Sanh blasted suspected North Vietnamese targets in the rolling foothills and mountains below the DMZ and to the west toward the Laos border.

It marked the first time that U.S. troops had returned to the Vandegrift base since the allied thrust into Laos. The base was reopened for the current operation called Lam Son 810, but is manned by South Vietnamese troops for the most part.

The aim of the drive is to disrupt North Vietnamese supply routes and infiltration corridors leading into South Vietnam from Laos and the DMZ. Hien said it was the first time a major South Vietnamese force had moved as far west along the DMZ since the Laotian drive.

Nixon to Personally Campaign for Approval of Economy Program

Canada Acts to Offset U.S. Surtax

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is setting out immediately and in person to campaign in a reconvened Congress for approval of the tax cuts built into his new economic policy.

Congress was reconvening today to deal with business left behind for a month's recess, and to begin work on the new economic package.

The President arranged to appear before a joint session of the House and Senate at 12:30 p.m. Thursday to urge approval of his plan to combat inflation and unemployment. The address

Connally Asks Program Not Be Changed

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally carried the Nixon administration's new tax program to Capitol Hill today, seeking to persuade lawmakers to approve the package unchanged.

The House Ways and Means Committee arranged hearings to coincide with the reconvening of Congress, after Nixon sprang his new economic policy during the congressional recess. Connally was the first witness.

George P. Shultz, budget and management director, follows Connally to the witness stand of the tax-writing committee Thursday morning. Then, shortly after noon, Nixon takes over with a nationally broadcast address to a joint session of Congress.

Nixon's problem is not so much to get the Democratic-controlled Congress to pass his tax measures, as to stave off additions to them, especially in the form of added tax relief for individuals.

Administration spokesmen have been arguing that quick action is essential to speed the economy, and that opening up the tax package to changes would result in prolonged debate and compromise efforts.

They are expected to press this argument hard in congressional appearances, and to contend too much tax relief would nullify anti-inflation aspects of Nixon's program.

But there is formidable congressional sentiment for expanding the tax-relief program. Nixon wants restoration of the investment credit by which business recaptured some of its spending on equipment; speed-up of provisions increasing the personal income tax exemption and standard deduction and elimination of the automobile excise tax.

Says Governor Will Run

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Archie Schaffer III, an aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers, says he believes the governor will seek re-election.

Schaffer, 23, Bumpers' nephew, said there has been "no real discussion between us about his future plans, but just from talking to him day-to-day, I would say that he doesn't have plans to do otherwise than run for a second term."

He received guerrilla training and lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days. Other specialized training included small unit tactics and map reading and firing the M-16 rifle, M-60 machine gun, and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Because of the hot weather all local schools will dismiss early for the rest of this week, it was announced by Superintendent James H. Jones. The intense heat has made classrooms almost unbearable and classes will dismiss one hour earlier. Weather permitting classes will operate on normal schedule next week.

U.S. to Ask Japan to Revalue Yen

TOKYO (AP) — The United States will ask Japan for a major revaluation of the yen and the elimination of certain import quotas and import licensing agreements, Japanese newspapers reported today.

They said the proposals will be made by Secretary of State William P. Rogers in his opening speech at the U.S.-Japan Cabinet level discussions beginning Thursday in Washington.

Japan's Mainichi Shimbun, a national daily, printed what it identified as the full text of a "draft statement" of Rogers' intended remarks. The newspaper did not disclose where it got the document, but sources in Tokyo said it probably was obtained from Japanese government officials prior to their departure from Tokyo for Washington.

The State Department in Washington denied the existence of a text for Rogers' speech.

The Asahi Shimbun, another national daily which also published stories based on what it called the Rogers text, said in a report from San Francisco that a sharp clash appears unavoidable at the talks.

The newspaper said members of the Japanese delegation to the conference, preparing Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda's reply to Rogers, said that Fukuda will call for "a virtual devaluation of the dollar" arguing that the United States should share the responsibility for the rehabilitation of its currency.

Asahi said the Japanese foreign minister also will call for the abolition of the 10 per cent U.S. import surcharge.

In Japan, prime minister Eisaku Sato was quoted as telling opposition members of the Japanese parliament, the Diet, during a question session that he was agreeable to a devaluation of the dollar combined with a revaluation of the yen.

He also was quoted as saying that Japan would buy modern weapons from the United States to replace obsolete arms now in use by the Japanese Self Defense Force. However, Japan will not share with the United States defense costs for South Korea and Taiwan, he was quoted as saying.

Rehearing of Gas Contract Deal Denied

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Public Service Commission denied Tuesday a request for a rehearing of an order canceling long-term contracts between Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co. and its big industrial customers.

Nine industries had asked for a rehearing of the Aug. 9 PSC order.

Arkansas Power & Light Co., one of the nine, notified the PSC Tuesday that it would appeal the ruling to Pulaski County Circuit Court.

In canceling the long-term contracts, the PSC has ordered that a cost of service survey be made as the basis for establishment of a uniform tariff the industries will pay for their gas.

Survey Shows Need for Doctors

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A recent survey of the 150 members of the six Central Arkansas county health councils shows that the three most important health needs in Arkansas include more physicians, more health services and lower health-cost service.

The survey will guide the Central Arkansas Council for Comprehensive Health Planning when it submits an application to the U.S. Public Health Service for health personnel under a new National Health Service Corps program.

Another Hurricane Is Brewing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Edith spun through the Caribbean with steadily growing fury today and the National Hurricane Center said she would become a dangerous storm before reaching a land-fall.

"Edith will be a major storm, maybe the storm of the year," said Dr. Robert H. Simpson, director of the center. "She has a classical eye and is intensifying. She is going to pose a real threat to someone."

With Edith, Tropical Storm Fern and a deepening depression all on the hurricane hunter's maps, Simpson said the western Caribbean, the entire Gulf of Mexico, and the Bahamas area of the Atlantic had become "One great big mammoth circulating system."

"It is a very unusual situation," he said. "The entire area is one great big cyclonic storm, so to speak."

Center about 340 miles south-southeast at Kingston, Jamaica, Edith was moving west-northwest at about 15 miles an hour. She was expected to slow her forward speed and turn more to north-west in the next 12 to 24 hours.

Highest winds of 75 miles an hour whipped around the eye. Fern, churning the Gulf with winds of 55 to 60 miles an hour, will grow in size and strength before hitting a coastline, Simpson said. Central America, rather than the U.S. coast, appeared to be her eventual target. Fern is centered about 260 miles east of Brownsville, Tex.

A depression in the Atlantic north of the lower Bahamas was showing signs of development and could reach tropical storm strength in 24 to 36 hours, the center said.

Cool Front May Drift Into State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — A cool front may drift into the northern portion of Arkansas Thursday, but warm temperatures are forecast for most of the state.

The cool front extended from northern New Mexico to western Kansas to Minnesota this morning. It is expected to move southeastward today and tonight, reaching north Arkansas Thursday.

The moisture in the air combined with afternoon heating is sufficient to produce widely scattered thundershowers over the state through Thursday with a slight increase in activity over the north portion Thursday because of the cool front.

Highs elsewhere in the state should be in the 90s through Thursday. Fort Smith was the hottest spot in the state Tuesday with a 95-degree reading. Lows tonight should be in the 70s.

Radar Tuesday indicated widely scattered to isolated thundershower activity over the state, but no rain fell at reporting stations.

will be carried live on radio and television.

The first session of the 92nd Congress was faced with a substantial workload even before Nixon recommended a series of tax measures on Aug. 15, when he announced his 90-day freeze on wages and prices.

Now the economic package, and the response of Democrats who control Congress, is sure to be a dominant issue in the balance of a session likely to run into the winter.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally was the first witness as the House Ways and Means Committee opened hearings on the Nixon program, which includes a 10-per-cent business investment tax credit, repeal of the 7-per-cent excise tax on new automobiles, and a speedup to Jan. 1, 1972, for a $50 increase in personal income tax exemptions.

Democrats in both Senate and House are sure to work some changes in the tax proposals before a bill is passed.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, may seek revisions to offer more tax relief to lower-income Americans.

In Labor Day speeches, Democratic presidential prospects agreed on one theme: the charge that the Nixon package is unfairly weighted in favor of the affluent and of big business.

The complaint came from Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, George McGovern of South Dakota, and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

When Senate Democrats caucus on an issue that now looms as a big one in the 1972 presidential campaign, they will almost certainly recommend changes in the package to offer more benefits to the consumer and the working man.

The House will act first on the tax measure, but the Senate has plenty to do until the economic package arrives there.

Would Force Utility to Rely on Oil

WASHINGTON (AP)—A brief filed by the Federal Power Commission supports a gas curtailment plan for Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. that would force electric power companies which now use natural gas to rely largely on fuel oil to operate its electric generating plants.

The brief supporting Arkla's proposal for curtailing natural gas sales. Several electric power companies, including Arkansas Power & Light Co., depend mostly on natural gas to fire the boilers at their generating plants. Under Arkla's plan, their gas supplies would be reduced more than at present. Arkla is currently curtailing gas sales to the electric companies by about 30 per cent.

At hearings in Washington in July and August, AP&L argued that the drastic loss of gas at four generating plants in Arkansas that would result if the plan goes into effect would endanger the reliability of its service.

J. D. Phillips of Pine Bluff, a vice president of AP&L, said that if the company had to switch to fuel oil its service would be endangered and the cost of conversion would be in excess of $15 million.

The FPC brief said that AP&L overstated the dangers in some instances and that, at any rate, the problems that the utility were of its own making.

"There is no concrete evidence that AP&L itself has ever tried to come to grips with its alleged oil supply problem," the brief said.

AP&L has stated that it could not arrange a large enough supply of fuel oil and that its transportation and storage facilities for fuel oil were not adequate. The firm has been using some fuel oil since the current curtailment began.

Mass Opens Kennedy Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two public performances to prolonged ovations, a third production of Leonard Bernstein's new "Mass" formally opens the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts tonight.

The audience: a specially invited crowd of 2,200 trustees of the center, major donors including ambassadors of countries which have given furnishings and works of art, some members of the Nixon administration, and a number of performing artists from all over the country.

"I am tremendously moved; I just can't describe it," Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., said of Tuesday night's performance in the center's opera house before an audience of members of Congress, the diplomatic corps and some members of the public who bought tickets.

Thompson and Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., were principal sponsors of the legislation that 13 years ago authorized construction of the $66.4-million national cultural center on the bank of the Potomac River near the Lincoln Memorial.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his wife have attended several rehearsals of the Bernstein work and have seen both public performances. They will be in the family party tonight along with the Kennedy matriarch, Rose Kennedy, Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, Mrs. Stephen A. Smith and Mrs. Peter Lawford.

There has been sporadic sniping in Congress about the concept of the cultural center, paid for in part by the taxpayers, and about escalating costs, but little of that was evident at the reception for Congress members.

Is the center unduly lavish? A reporter asked Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and normally pretty tight-fisted. "Oh, no, it seems rather modest to me," Mahon said.

"No, I don't think it's opulent at all—or elitist either," said Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz. Rep. Frank Bow, R-Ohio, senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee and a frequent critic of the center as a waste of tax money, said: "I think it is very beautiful... a great thing for our country."

Kiwanis Club Speaker

L. E. GILLILAND

L. E. Gilliland, Executive Vice President of the Texarkana Chamber of Commerce was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. He was presented by Kiwanian Mike Kelly who arranged the program.

Mr. Gilliland spoke on the Economic Growth of Southwest Arkansas.

He stated that we are living in exciting times, but questioned whether we are keeping up with our problems. In the last analysis the people and the people only are responsible for economic growth. Two percent of our people make the decisions.

There are a lot of followers but few leaders. This leadership base must be broadened. We must develop leaders, use our natural resources, and gain efficiency in our operations to accomplish what we should.

Mr. Gilliland, looking to the future, outlined a list of comprehensive objectives and suggested a number of ways of more nearly reaching them. He closed his talk with a statement that our progress will be determined by our people.

At Tuesday's meeting Jimmy Tate and Bill Freeman were formally inducted into membership in the Kiwanis Club. Bill's wife, Ann, was a guest of the club for Bill's induction. Due to other commitments Mrs. Tate could not be present.

Kiwanian George Frazier, Chairman of the Kiwanis Pancake Supper, reminded all the Kiwanians that this Friday evening from 5 to 7 P.M., preceding the Prescott game is the time for this year's Pancake Supper, one of the two annual fund raising projects of the local club.

Other guests present were A. M. Hewitt, J. W. Rowe, B. N. Holt all of Hope and Bill McKenzie of Pensacola, Florida.

AP News Digest

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is setting out immediately and in person to campaign before a reconvened Congress for approval of the tax cuts built into his new economic policy.

The President arranged to appear before a joint session of the House and Senate at 12:30 p.m. Thursday to urge approval of his plan to combat inflation and unemployment. The address will be carried on radio and television.

GOTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government has introduced legislation designed to blunt the effect of the new U.S. import surcharge and warned that the levy may force Canada to reconsider its close ties with the United States.

The bill provides $80 million in government grants to firms that face reduced output and unemployment due to the surcharge, which Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said could cost Canada between $300 million and $900 million in annual export sales.

UNDATED (AP) — Court-ordered plans for school integration by busing have gone into effect in more Southern and Midwestern school districts with isolated instances of protest.

The Austin, Tex., school desegregation plan, cited by President Nixon in his criticism of busing, has been appealed by the Justice Department.

SAIGON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's declaration a month ago that U.S. forces in Vietnam are in defensive positions, a number of U.S. troops are actively engaged in two offensive operations in the northern quarter of South Vietnam.

U.S. forces attacked from land, sea and air today in support of a South Vietnamese drive toward the Laotian border south of the demilitarized zone.

Gillham Dam Completion Is Urged

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., today urged "speedy completion" of the Gillham Dam project on the Cossatot River.

McClellan's statement was read during the second of two public hearings on a new environmental impact statement by the Army Engineers on the project.

The first hearing was held Aug. 31 at Fort Smith where a majority of the witnesses opposed the dam. About 600 persons showed up for the hearing today and the crowd obviously favored the project.

U.S. District Court Judge G. Thomas Elisele halted work on the project late last year on grounds that the first two impact statements did not meet the requirements of the National Environmental Quality Act of 1969. The new statement was written in an attempt to satisfy the court.

Conservationists want the river to remain as a free-flowing stream and several conservation organizations and individuals filed suit to halt construction of the project. The Engineers contend that most residents of the area where the project is being built feel the dam is needed to provide flood control and water supply.

McClellan's statement today said, "I urge all parties to proceed expeditiously so that the Gillham Reservoir can become a reality as soon as possible, for each day lost means a financial loss to our citizens and greater jeopardy to their lives and property."

A statement by Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt supporting the dam was also read into the record. Other statements in favor of the dam came from state Rep. George Davis of Horatio, state Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott, De Queen Mayor Fay Sharp and Sevier County Judge B. A. Mauldin. Mauldin's statement included a petition, signed by 1,776 persons, calling for completion of the dam.

Capt. Medina's Trial Is Nearing End

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — The My Lai murder trial of Capt. Ernest L. Medina resumes today, after an 11-day recess, with the government nearing the end of its case.

One of the 29 prosecution witnesses who have testified in the court-martial which began Aug. 16 has placed Medina's command group at the scene of multiple shootings during an assault on the Vietnamese hamlet March 16, 1968.

Robert Brisentine Jr. of Ft. Holabird, Md., an Army polygraph examiner who administered a lie detector test to Medina, is expected to be among the government's final witnesses.

However, Brisentine's testimony is expected to be curtailed by a ruling of the military judge, Col. Kenneth Howard.

Before the recess, Howard ruled that the polygraph examiner may not refer to results of the lie detector test he administered during the Army's investigation of Medina's case.

Brisentine can testify only about his interviews and conversations with the Montrose, Colo., career officer before administering the test a year ago. The interview spanned 14 hours.

In the absence of the jury, Brisentine told the court that Medina told him he realized, "sometime between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. on the day of the assault" that civilians were being killed at My Lai.

"Capt. Medina stated he lost control of his unit at My Lai and at the time he found out, it was too late," Brisentine said at the hearing.

The Army contends Medina failed to intervene when he discovered his troops were killing villagers.

The Doctors' Save-Your-Heart Diet

By AILEEN CLAIRE and DAVID HENDIN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Some 3.1 million American adults between 18 and 79 years of age had definite coronary heart disease, according to the National Health Examination Survey of 1960 to 1962. Furthermore, an additional 2.4 million had suspected coronary heart disease.

Combined, these two groups represented about 5 per cent of the population. Of Americans younger than 65 years, it was estimated that nearly 1.8 million had coronary heart disease and 1.6 million were suspected of having the disease.

The Inter-Society Commission on Heart Disease, a government-sponsored group, has recommended basic changes in the American diet to help cut down on coronary heart disease in this country. The Doctors' Save Your Heart Diet is based upon these findings.

Of the 600,000 deaths due to heart disease each year in the United States, some 165,000 are "premature" or occurring in persons younger than 65. There is a greater toll among men than women by three to one.

"A North American man has about one chance in five of developing clinical coronary heart disease before age 60, mostly in the form of myocardial infarction (heart attack). About 25 per cent of those experiencing a first premature heart attack die within three hours of onset of symptoms, often prior to hospitalization and before medical care can be obtained. Another 10 per cent die within weeks after their attack," the ISCHD reported.

"These facts strongly indicate that major progress in controlling atherosclerotic diseases is possible only by primary prevention. This must be the main strategic thrust of a national effort to control coronary heart disease during the years ahead," the report concluded.

A number of risk factors for coronary heart disease have been identified. These include a diet that is regularly high in saturated fat, cholesterol and calories; high blood pressure; cigarette smoking; diabetes; obesity; sedentary living; psychosocial tensions, and high levels of fatty materials called lipids in the blood serum. Furthermore, a family history of premature atherosclerotic disease is also a risk factor.

The Doctors' Save-Your-Heart Diet contains many recipes designed to help reduce the risk of heart disease. Here are two of them:

SPICED WHIPPED SQUASH

- 2 medium acorn squash
- 1/3 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons diet margarine
- 2 tablespoons light brown sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves

RACE TO ALTAR ERASES FRIENDSHIP

Dear Helen: When I became engaged, I asked a friend to be my bridesmaid. She announced her engagement a week later, and wanted me in her wedding party. I accepted.

Original plans were that I'd be married in late 1972. When we changed the date to December, 1971, she got furious, and talked her fiancé into a wedding a year before she had planned it. She remarked to a mutual friend, "Over my dead body will she (meaning me) get married before I do!" Hers is now set three weeks before mine!

I really don't want her in my wedding party now because of her childish ways—and I really won't have time to be in hers, as I'll be planning my own wedding. The other girls in my bridal group aren't too friendly with her either.

How do I tactfully get out of this? —CONCERNED BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear Bride: Mutual jealousy (admit it, you're both competing for "first") can turn a wedding party into a cat-fight. Since this friendship has cooled, you're both probably wondering about a tactful retreat. Why not start things by withdrawing as her bridesmaid "because you'll be too busy with your own plans"? I'm sure she'll do the same for you. —H.

My boy friend is for sex, but not romance. He told me from the start that he didn't want to get involved, and that marriage is only needed if you produce a child. I went along, as I loved him so much I couldn't bear to leave him. Our affair is on a "just friends" basis, though he said "if necessary" he'd marry me. Reluctantly.

Well, I've discovered I'm pregnant. He is an honorable man, and I'm sure he'll keep his word but, Helen, can a marriage survive if only one person is in love? Can it ever be enough, marrying a friend? —STUPID FOOL

Dear Fool: ...Not if the "friend" regrets the necessity of proving his friendship. Tell him about the pregnancy but don't insist on marriage. A trapped man makes a poor husband. —H.

Dear Helen: I must be awfully dumb. My husband said he was drafted and I believed him. Later I found that he enlisted. He left me with $10 in cash and enough bills to drown me.

My allotment check won't pay expenses for our little boy and me, and my family can't take me in. I ask my husband to send some of his pay home, but he says he's in a very boring place and the only amusements he has are cigarettes and beer, so it all goes.

I'm afraid he just wanted to get away from his family and the bills, etc. And me!

What can I do? —LEFT AT HOME

Dear Left: Contact the Red Cross. This agency may tide you over with a temporary grant, and help you to find a job—something you will probably need from now on! —H.

Dear Helen: I am a kidney patient, suffering from an incurable disease. Treatments are prolonged, painful and terribly expensive. It costs $24,000 a year to survive on a kidney machine, money my family doesn't have.

A kidney transplant is my only hope, and one must be donated by a dying person. Each person who offers his kidneys can save two lives.

Therefore, I beg people to consider donating their kidneys at death. And please: make this stipulation, in writing and legally, long before death is imminent. —ANTHONY

Dear Readers: Not only kidneys but other vital organs are desperately wanted. YOU won't use that body after death. Why not donate needed parts to others? —H.

"Bloody Mary" The term, "Bloody Mary," was applied to Queen Mary I of England because of the bitter persecution she caused the Protestants in her attempt to bring England back to the Roman Catholic faith.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Remember the cocktail dress? The evening dress? Even the dinner dress? Now there's nostalgia for you. What to wear after-five was neatly labeled for the appropriate occasion.

Of course, along with the lack of confusion went the dullness of the totally expected. Uniform ranks of ladies in sequins or debutantes in white tulle disappeared from the fashion scene. Today fashion can be fun. Everyone is free to wear the unexpected, which paradoxically ends the traumatic insecurity of wondering what to wear to a party. When everything is in, nothing is out.

Choose your after-five wardrobe this year on the basis of these questions: Is this the most flattering style for me as a person? If your legs aren't your best point, skip hotpants for the new ankle-length skirts. Is the fabric easy-care and non-crush? (Polyesters like Quintess free you from the ironing board and dry cleaners and keep you freshly unwrinkled through a long evening.)

Is it my color? This is the year to indulge your penchant for the most becoming shades.

Keep in mind that the fashion rule is "no rules." Here are some suggestions for what to wear at different occasions in the evening:

DINNER PARTY with conservative friends — A dressy pantsuit is as classic as the little black dress was yesterday. No matter how stodgy the group, you won't feel too avant garde in evening pants.

COCKTAILS WITH swinging young friends — Full length dresses no longer mean formal or at-home wear. Instead they are casual and relaxed and the newest look around for after-five parties.

RESTAURANT DINING — For city evenings with husband or clients there's still nothing to replace a dress and matching coat. You'll be protected from too chilly air conditioning or fall breezes while striking an always appropriate fashion note.

Picks Hogs to Defeat California

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — What kind of opening weekend is this for the college football season when no less than 12 of the Top Twenty teams in the preseason poll are in action?

Whatever happened to the openers that used to pit old Block & Tackle U. against Breather Poly?

The season gets under way Friday night with a classic matchup—fifth-ranked Southern California against 16th-rated Alabama in the Los Angeles Coliseum. In addition, Brigham Young faces North Texas State in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Some 40 more games involving at least one major team are on tap Saturday, as well as the Grambling-Morgan State contest to be televised nationally. ABC-TV, 6:30 p.m., EDT, from New York's Yankee Stadium.

So here goes with another campaign of trying to pick 'em right. We'll take the credit for the winners. The losers are the responsibility of the assistant coaches.

Alabama at Southern Cal—The magic number here is 200. Alabama's next victory will be Bear Bryant's 200th and USC's John McKay says the Crimson Tide "is 200 per cent better than a year ago," when the Trojans romped 42-21. The Bear is growing again but will have to wait another week for No. 200 as the Trojans start to make amends for last season's 6-4-1 disappointment. SOUTHERN CAL.

Oregon at Nebraska—The Cornhuskers, ranked only second in the pre-season voting, are trying to become the first team since Alabama in 1964-5 to win consecutive national championships. This could be their toughest test of the year. Nebraska's defense allowed 177 points last season and Oregon has Dan Fouts to throw the ball and Bobby Moore to run with it. But the Ducks gave up 256 points and this game is in Lincoln before all those screaming people in red outfits, so-o-o-o ... NEBRASKA

Michigan at Northwestern—Alex Agase was named Coach of the Year last season by the Football Writers Association of America. In three weeks he could be Coach of the Century. After No. 4 Michigan come top-ranked Notre Dame and No. 13 Syracuse for the 20th-rated Wildcats. These two tied for second in the Big Ten. Barring a tie, they'll be a game apart after Saturday and the team on top will be ... MICHIGAN.

California vs. Arkansas at Little Rock—The first meeting between the two schools finds eighth-ranked Arkansas with an established quarterback Joe Ferguson and California without one. Razorbacks were stunned in their 1970 opener by another Pacific-8 team, Stanford, and don't intend to let it happen again. ARKANSAS.

Colorado at Louisiana State—It can get awfully warm and humid in Baton Rouge at this time of year and Coach Charlie McClelland of the No. 9 home team hopes it's hotter-n you-know-what. The Buffaloes would like to bring some Colorado snow with them but no use. LSU

Iowa at Ohio State—Coach Frank Lautner brought a 23-game winning streak with him from Toledo to Iowa but is

Northside Retains Top Spot

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Fort Smith Northside retains the top spot in The Associated Press high school football poll by the margin of a two-point conversion.

Stuttgart's two-point conversion attempt went awry and Northside escaped with a 11-12 victory in the season opener Thursday night.

The Grizzlies, a solid choice for the No. 1 ranking in the pre-season poll, edged Little Rock Hall by three points for the top spot this week. Northside had nine first-place votes and 151 points; Hall five first-place votes and 148 points.

The other two first-place votes from the panel of sports-writers and sportscasters went to Hot Springs, a strong third in the poll. The Trojans, fourth in the pre-season poll, moved up after an impressive victory over Malvern.

Little Rock McCellan, Little Rock Catholic, Rogers, Little Rock Parkview, Forrest City, Texarkana and Stuttgart round out the top 10.

Little Rock McCellan, eighth last week, jumped four notches after beating Conway 29-21. Little Rock Catholic, which opens this week against Hall, remains fifth.

Rogers moved up from ninth to sixth after beating Springdale 20-0. Little Rock Parkview, rated third last week, remained in the top 10 despite a 14-0 loss to Hall. Forrest City vaulted into the No. 8 spot on the basis of its upset of sixth-ranked Pine Bluff.

Texarkana took over the No. 9 slot after an impressive 15-0 victory over highly regarded Arkadelphia. Stuttgart, which was tied for the No. 10 spot with El Dorado last week, continued 10th.

El Dorado, which opens its season this week against North Little Rock Northeast, dropped out of the top 10. Jonesboro ranked seventh last week, also fell from the select group after a 0-0 tie with Batesville.

Rogers and Stuttgart continued 1-2 in Class AA and Russellville replaced Arkadelphia as the No. 3 team. In Class A, McCrory and Nashville continued to head the list. Marked Tree is ranked third, replacing Joe T. Robinson. Gentry and Murfreesboro are the top vote-getters in Class B, but Gillett replaced Dierks as the No. 3 team.

Here are the top 10 teams in The Associated Press high school football poll with first-place votes and team records in parentheses and total points at right:

1. FS Northside (9) (1-0) 151
2. LR Hall (5) (1-0) 148
3. Hot Springs (2) (1-0) 121
4. LR McCellan (1-0) 77
5. LR Catholic (0-0) 72
6. Rogers (1-0) 58
7. LR Parkview (1-0) 57
8. Forrest City (1-0) 41
9. Texarkana (1-0) 34
10. Stuttgart (1-0) 32

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Ashdown, Berryville, El Dorado, Fayetteville, Gentry, Jonesboro, LR Central, Nashville, North Little Rock, North Little Rock Northeast, Pine Bluff and Russellville.

Class AA
1. Rogers (9) (1-0) 39
2. Stuttgart (6) (0-1) 29
3. Russellville (1) (1-0) 10
Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Ashdown, Arkadelphia, Batesville, Camden, Fordyce, Malvern, McGeehe, Sloom Springs, Van Buren, and Warren.

Class A
1. McCrory (5) (1-0) 31
2. Nashville (7) (1-0) 30
3. Marked Tree (1) (1-0) 14
Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Beebe, Berryville (1), Charleston, Grady (1), Green Forest, Manila, Prescott and Walnut Ridge (1).

Class B
1. Gentry (10) (1-0) 38
2. Murfreesboro (2) (1-0) 18
3. Gillett (1) (1-0) 14
Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Danville, Dierks (1), Gould (1), Harding Academy, Norphlet, Praire Grove, and West Fork.

Bobcats Are Preparing for Prescott

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer
Hopes Bobcats have been working hard, preparing for Friday night's first home game against the Prescott Curley Wolves.

On Monday night the Cats practiced under the lights and yesterday in the afternoon sun. Both practices lasted about three hours.

With the teams running pass patterns and working on blocks, the Cats are hoping to improve on their offensive side of the game plan.

Yesterday the injury list grew a little more with the injury of defensive tackle Bubba Powers. Powers was carried off the field and taken home with a believed bruised kidney.

Also, Rusty Quillen, a two way starter, has missed working out in pads with a pulled back muscle which could hamper him quite a bit. Tight end David Huddleston is still nursing a badly hurt toe while David Chance is still taking care of a hurt knee that he injured in the Red-White scrimmage game.

As hot as it has been and as hard as Hope has been working, it showed some when two Bobcat players were carried off the field, suffering from dehydration. However, they should be back in uniform today.

Turning to the junior high scene, Coaches Jake Honea and Ken Allen have been busy getting their team in good shape for their opening game Thursday night against Prescott's Curley Cubs. The Kittens seem to have enough material for a fine team and with some good enthusiasm it should be interesting to see them in action.

SLEEPING HORSES

Ever wonder if horses sleep standing up or lying down? Dr. Manuel Gilman, an examining veterinarian for the New York Racing Association, has the answer: "The horse can sleep either lying down or standing up. Older horses are more apt to sleep on their feet because lying down and getting up may be more difficult for them. Horses sleep a few hours at a time, day or night."

Hot Torre Praises Cardinals

By ALEX SAHAMANE
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "The club has a lot of pride ... and remember, we've got five games left with the Pirates. The way we're going—who knows?"

Joe Torre, the National League's leading hitter with an average of .368, still thinks the St. Louis Cardinals, who have won nine of their last 12 games, have a shot at overtaking Pittsburgh. The Pirates hold a six-game lead over St. Louis, but both teams still have 19 games remaining.

Torre slammed eight hits in 11 at-bats Tuesday night as the Cardinals took a twilight doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 9-6 in 13 innings in the first game, 7-5 in 10 innings in the nightcap.

The opener was the completion of a game suspended from Aug. 1, picked up with the Cardinals leading 6-3 in the 12th.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston defeated Atlanta 5-1, Montreal romped to a 9-3 decision over the New York Mets, San Diego rallied to beat Cincinnati 8-7 and Los Angeles downed San Francisco 9-3. The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

In American League action, Kansas City trimmed Milwaukee 4-3, the Chicago White Sox edged Minnesota 8-7, Baltimore defeated Cleveland 3-2, Detroit edged Washington 3-2 in 11 innings, Boston trounced the New York Yankees 9-3 and California beat Oakland and Vida Blue 6-1.

"You pretty well think you've got it won when you're leading a suspended game by three runs," said Torre, "especially when you have five weeks to think about it."

But Philadelphia scored three runs of Larry Bowa's two-run triple and Pete Koegel's single, and it was a new ball game.

Singles by Ted Simmons, Julian Javier, Bob Burda, Torre and Matty Alou produced three runs in the 13th, and the Cardinals had a 9-6 victory.

But the night's excitement was far from over.

The Cards were trailing 5-3 with two out in the bottom of the ninth, but as the saying goes, the game is never over until the last man is out.

That last man, champ, reached second when Denny Doyle got a late start on his pop fly, then dropped it for an error. Lou Brock followed with a two-run single to tie the game.

The Cards took the lead in the 10th when Torre singled but Simmons tripled. Joe Hague added an insurance run by driving in Simmons on a fielders choice play.

Torre collected five hits in seven at bats in the opener, then came back with three hits in four trips in the nightcap. His .368 average leaves him comfortably ahead of the surging Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, who is now up to .350.

Don Wilson, 14-8, throttled Atlanta 5-1 on just two hits, one in the first by Felix Millan, the other in the ninth by Ralph Garr. The Astros erupted for four runs in the fifth, with Cesar Geronimo and Joe Morgan hitting consecutive homers.

Rusty Staub cracked his 15th home run of the season and drove in four runs as Montreal defeated the New York Mets 9-3. The Expos scored eight runs in the first three innings, then coasted home behind Steve Renko, 14-13, who got relief help from Mike Marshall in the ninth.

Run-scoring ninth-inning singles by Leron Lee and Garry Jestadt gave San Diego a come-from-behind 8-7 victory over Cincinnati. Lee went five-for-five in the game and scored four runs, while Jestadt was four-for-four with three runs batted in.

The Dodgers pulled within six games of the Giants in the National League West by recording their seventh victory in nine outings and their fifth straight over San Francisco.

Los Angeles chased Giant starter Ron Bryant in the first inning before he could retire a batter. Maury Wills walked and Bobby Valentine, Willie Davis and Richie Allen followed with successive singles. That brought Jim Barr in from the bullpen, but Manny Mota greeted him with a double and Wes Parker followed with a sacrifice fly.

Blue's Hopes for Award Fading

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"The Cy Young Award?" Vida Blue mused. "Maybe I'd vote for Mickey Lolich, too. He's doing better than I am now."

The young flame-throwing left-hander of the Oakland A's had plenty of time to think about the award—presented to the best pitcher in each league—and his fading chances for it.

Blue spent most of Tuesday night's game against California on the sidelines after the usually mild-hitting Angels pounced on him for three runs in 59, first inning, then rode Wright's six-hitter to a 6-1 victory over the A's.

It was Blue's fourth loss in five starts and his eighth of the season, keeping him tied with Lolich of the Detroit Tigers for the most American League victories with 23 and the most complete games with 24.

But of late, Blue's fortunes have been sinking while Lolich, at 31, nine years older than the Oakland ace, has been coming on like gangbusters. It was on Monday that the Detroit workhorse caught Blue in both categories with a masterful six-hit 3-0 victory over Washington.

"It would be nice," Blue commented, "if they had two awards—one for the first half of the season and one for the second half."

In other American League games, Kansas City edged Milwaukee 4-3, the Chicago White Sox topped Minnesota 8-7, Baltimore beat Cleveland 3-1, Detroit defeated Washington 3-2 in 11 innings and Boston routed the New York Yankees 9-3.

In the National League, St. Louis completed a suspended game against Philadelphia with a 13-inning 9-6 victory, then made it a sweep with a 10-inning 7-5 victory in the regularly scheduled game, Montreal mauled the New York Mets 9-3, Houston swatted Atlanta 5-1, San Diego tripped Cincinnati 8-7 and Los Angeles clouted San Francisco 9-3. Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cubs did not play.

The meager crowd of 6,878 in Oakland has hardly gotten comfortable when Ken Berry singled, Ken McMullen drilled his 18th home run and a walk and singles by Jim Spencer and Tommy Reynolds gave the Angels all the runs they needed.

Blue left after three innings, his earliest departure since Washington kayoed him in 1-13 innings—in the first game of the season.

Amos Otis ran haywire for the Royals, stealing five bases to equal a feat last performed on May 27, 1964, by Dennis McGann of the old New York Giants. It still fell one short of the American League record set in 1912 by Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia A's.

Otis also collected four singles and beat the Brewers when he scratched a two-out single in the seventh inning, swiped second, stole third, then continued home when Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter's throw sailed into left field. It put Otis' thefts at 47, one back of teammate and league leader Fred Patek.

White Sox catcher Ed Herrmann belted two home runs—offsetting a pair by Harmon Killebrew of the Twins—driving in five runs to enable Tommy John to struggle to his 11th victory. Killebrew's bombs gave him 22 for the year and 509 for his career and Leo Cardenas also homered for Minnesota, his 17th.

Dave McNally, boosting his record to 18-4, won his own game for the Orioles with a two-run homer while silencing the Indians on five hits. It was

Ashe Thinks Competition Is Lacking

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Hot-shot Arthur Ashe says he's as good as he was when he won the first U.S. Open Tennis championship in 1968 but the competition isn't because seven top players aren't here.

"In 1968 I played so well it scared me," said the third-seeded pro from Richmond, Va., after he defeated young Australian John Alexander 6-4, 7-6, 6-4, 6-3, to enter the quarter-finals. "I was in the middle of that winning streak then. I hadn't lost a match in two months. I know how Chris Evert feels."

He's just likely to win the $30,000 top prize in this $160,000 classic, which is missing such stars as defending champion Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson, Fred Stolle, Tony Roche and Rod Laver of Australia, Andrew Gimeno of Spain and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa.

All of them, as well as Ashe, are members of Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis, Inc., stable. There was speculation that they bypassed Forest Hills because of a long-standing feud between the WCT and the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association which has threatened to ban all contract pros as of Jan. 1, 1972.

Forest Hills can't survive without us," Ashe said. "You can't hard-sell sophisticated New Yorkers, nor soft-sell them for that matter. They won't come out here to watch unknowns. The fact that none of the players who stayed out were Americans helped them this year."

Ashe was the only seeded player to see action in the men's singles division Tuesday but four ranked women took to the courts, two of them walking off victims.

Nancy Richey Gunter, No. 7, of San Angelo, Tex., was upset by collegian Laura duPont of Charlotte, N.C., 0-6, 6-2, 6-4, in a third-round match postponed by rain Monday while Kerry Melville, eliminated fellow Australian Judy Dalton 6-3, 7-5 in the first match of the Open between seeded players. Miss Melville, who moved into the semifinal round, is seeded No. 4 and Miss Dalton was No. 6.

In a controversial center court match, Joyce Williams of Britain was foiled by foot faults in her bid to upset No. 2 seed Rosemary Casals of San Francisco. Miss Casals, runner-up here last year to Australian Margaret Court, won the match 6-2, 2-6, 6-4 and the pretty Miss Williams left the court as ruffled as the pink frill on the hem of her tennis dress.

Miss Williams was foot-faulted on the vital game point of the ninth game of the third set with the score 4-4. She buried her face in a towel on the sidelines, then returned to the match—but never regained her composure.

"I hate to win that way," Miss Casals said afterwards.

Jan Kodes, the Czechoslovakian Davis Cup player who ousted top-seeded Australian John Newcombe in the first round, defeated Bob Lutz of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, and Manuel Orantes of Spain eliminated Jim Osborne of Honolulu 2-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

The Red Sox carried a 3-2 lead into the eighth inning against the Yanks, then erupted for six runs to seal their victory.

Doug Griffen doubled home two runs in the big inning and two more came in on first baseman John Ellis' wild throw but the hitting hero for Boston was Reggie Smith, who drove in three runs and scored two more.

War Brewing in World of Tennis

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — "It looks as if they want a war—you'd have to be naive not to notice it." Lamar Hunt, millionaire bankroller of the pro tennis tour, said today of the game's newest impasse.

"It's a strange war. They want to hurt us apparently. We don't want to hurt anybody. Our hope is to build a strong professional arm to the game. We think we can do it to the benefit of tennis, its sponsors and its fans."

The war involves Hunt's World Championship Tennis, Inc., which has 32 leading professionals under contract, and the International Lawn Tennis Federation, which has barred Hunt's pros in all ILTF tournaments, starting in 1971.

The ILTF tournaments include Wimbledon, the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, the French Open at Roland Garros in Paris, the Italian and Australian Opens, and other long-time, established fixtures.

Jack Kramer, former promoter who now directs the Pepsi Grand Prix series, predicted Tuesday that one-man rule could destroy the game.

"There is no simple solution to our differences, but these differences could be worked out," Hunt, a Texas oil heir who also owns the football Kansas City Chiefs and other sports teams, said.

"For one thing, we have suggested that the 'Big Three' tournaments—Wimbledon, Forest Hills and Roland Garros—be included in the point system for our players. These players would be given reasonable expenses to play and would compete for the prize money."

"But, no, the ILTF says these tournaments are sacrosanct. They must be run on principals used in the past. Our feeling is that everything must be susceptible to change if it is to grow."

"But we don't want to hurt Wimbledon or Forest Hills. We want our players to compete in them. In fact, we tried to persuade those who stayed out of the Open this year to come in."

Defending champion Ken Rosewall, Rod Laver, Tony Roche and several other top pros declined to play in the U.S. Open at Forest Hills.

Joseph Cullman III, chairman of the board of Philip Morris, Inc., announced Tuesday that his company planned to cancel its contract with CBS unless the top men pros and women of the Virginia Slims tour were allowed to compete next year.

Razorback Linebacker Hurts Ankle

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Razorbacks first-team linebacker Danny Rhodes suffered an ankle injury during practice Tuesday.

Coach Frank Broyles said late Tuesday, however, that the injury was thought to be minor and that Rhodes probably would be able to participate in the Arkansas-California game Saturday. Broyles said he hoped Rhodes would be able to practice Thursday.

Broyles said he was displeased with Tuesday's workout.

"Practice was poor and sloppy," he said. "We had poor play execution and we only ran about half as many plays as we should have because we had to keep repeating plays."

The Porkers were to have their final practice in pads today before the season opener Saturday.

Gordie Howe Decides to Retire

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gordie Howe, one of world's greatest hockey players, apparently has decided to retire at the athletic old age of 43.

Howe, who has scored a record 786 goals in the last quarter-century as a forward for the Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League, won't say definitely that he is quitting.

He told The Associated Press Tuesday, however, that he had made a decision on his future and will make it public at a news conference Thursday.

"Nobody other than my immediate family knows what my decision is and I'm trying to be honest with everybody and not say in advance what it is," said Howe, who has hampered last season by an arthritic left wrist and right elbow.

Disclosure of Howe's imminent retirement as a player shared the spotlight Tuesday with the signing of Phil Esposito, record scoring center, by the Boston Bruins to a four-year contract worth an estimated $400,000.

The 29-year-old Esposito, who scored a record 76 goals and 159 points in the NHL last season, said he would not reveal the terms of the contract other than it called for "a good deal more than a speculative figure of $333,000."

Esposito said he was "very, very happy." He added, "I never need any incentive to play hockey."

Neither did Howe in his prime. He was quoted recently as saying "hockey is no longer fun to play."

Esposito's contract is in conformity with President Nixon's wage freeze, a Bruin spokesman said. "Maybe he didn't get an increase this year," the spokesman commented.

With the NHL training camps scheduled to open this weekend and the first exhibition games slated Sept. 17, there were other developments in the sport Tuesday.

The Pittsburgh Penguins purchased rightwinger Billy Hicke from the California Golden Seals. The Seals also announced they had sold defenseman Doug Roberts to the new Boston Braves franchise in the American Hockey League.

Defensemen Jacques Lapierre and Guy Lapointe signed their contracts to play again for the Montreal Canadiens.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New Amsterdam, established the first municipal fire department in the United States in 1659. The World Almanac recalls. A supply of ladders and hooks, and 250 leather buckets were distributed, and a chimney tax was imposed to maintain this equipment. The department's main duty was to inspect for violations of the fire laws.

First Setback for Coach of Packers

By MIKE O'BRIEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) —

Dan Devine had the third best college football coaching record in the nation over the last 16 years at Arizona State and Missouri, but his first setback as head of the Green Bay Packers came four days into training camp this summer.

Bart Starr, who had quarterbacked the Packers to five National Football League titles and two Super Bowl victories in the 1960s, reinjured the passing arm that had hampered him much of last season. Now, at age 37 and two operations later, Starr is not expected back until at least late October, and perhaps not at all.

Of the NFL's 26 teams, only
New England and New Orleans scored fewer points than the Packers (196) last year. Much of that was traceable to Starr's injuries, which near the end of the season all but eliminated his deep passing threat.

Devine, who succeeded Phil Bengtson in January, had counted on a healed Starr to rekindle the offense. Now he has Zeke Bratkowski, still an able passer at 39 but an inactive player since 1968, as the probable No. 1 quarterback. Scott Hunter of Alabama has shown exceptional promise but is a rookie.

Devine has decided against extensive trading, preferring to try to rehabilitate the Packers from within. Toward that end, he sent tackle Kevin Hardy to San Diego for a No. 1 draft choice, which will give Green Bay two picks in the first round next January.

Whoever emerges at quarterback will throw to a receiving corps that is not as fast as Devine would like, but able. The best is Carroll Dale, who has gained 814 or more yards receiving four of the last five years and is still elusive at 33.

The other wide receiver is swift John Spill, who has always shown promise but has caught a total of only 13 passes in his first two years. Tight end John Hilton, who caught 25 passes last season, is being pushed by Rich McGeorge, a No. 1 draft choice in 1970.

Running back is the team's strong suit, with Dave Hampton, a game-breaking threat, healthy after missing eight weeks in 1970. Top draft choice John Brockington of Ohio State looks like the power runner
Green Bay has lacked since Jim Taylor departed four years ago. Donny Anderson rushed for 853 yards last year and gained another 414 catching passes. Perry Williams, a good blocker and receiver, will start at fullback if Brockington isn't deemed ready.

All-pro guard Gale Gilling-ham anchors a young and still improving offensive line that includes Ken Bowman at cen-
Dick Himes at right tackle and Francis Peay or Bill Hayhoe at left tackle.

Inconsistent placekicking has cost the Packers dearly since Don Chandler retired after 1967, the last championship season. Dale Livingston kicked 15 field goals last year and has a powerful leg, but may not know until shortly before the season starts whether the job will be his again.

Green Bay gave up 293 points a year ago, which unfairly reflects on a defense that was kept on the field too long because of the offense's failures.
Anderson had to punt a record 81 times as the offense made first down only 30 per cent of the time on third down plays.

Clarence Williams, Bob Brown, Mike McCoy and Lionel Aldridge. Alden Roche, acquired from Denver, should help at defensive end.

Dave Robinson, one of the league's top corner linebackers, has been rounding into shape after an Achilles tendon injury.
Fred Carr is becoming one of the best at the other corner and hard hitting Jim Carter may supplant Ray Nitschke, a bas-

State Racing Commission Plans Rules

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP)

—The state Racing Commission decided Tuesday night to prepare new rules governing horse and dog racing in Arkansas.

The commission said some of the old rules were obsolete and needed updating. Commission members did not indicate when the new regulations would be completed.

James Black of Turrell, a kennel owner who has raced dogs at Southland dog racing track in West Memphis for the past 13 years, asked the commission to rule on whether track officials or the Racing Commission had the authority to say whether a dog-owner is allowed to race his dogs at the track.

Black said he had heard rumors that Southland officials might bar him from racing at the track. He said he had been barred from racing at several tracks in Florida and the Florida Racing Commission would not grant him a hearing to defend himself.

Arkansas commission members told Black that his question was "theoretical" and the issue would be faced when and if it arose.

Two Top Pro Quarterbacks on Sidelines

By BEN THOMAS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Two of the game's top quarterbacks, Joe Namath and Sonny Jurgensen, have been hurt in exhibition games but don't expect the National Football League to give up preseason contests.

It can't.
The owners can't afford to.

William Clay Ford, owner of the Detroit Lions, will attest to that.

Without exhibition games,
"we wouldn't be in the black,"
says Ford.

Last weekend's exhibition games—the NFL officially likes to call them preseason games—were seen by 696,753. At $6, or thereabouts, for tickets, that comes to over $4 million. Multiply that by six—the number of preseason games most NFL teams play—and you see what Ford's talking about.

Ford also maintains that exhibition games are necessary for reasons other than money.
"Otherwise the coaches wouldn't play a rookie if their lives depended on it."

Because coaches do play rookies in exhibition games, zany Mike Battle is no longer a New York Jet.

Battle got the ax Tuesday because rookies Chris Fargas-opoulos, a kick-return specialist, and Phil Wise, a safety, beat him out.

The 175-pound Battle was the Jets' punt and kickoff returns leader the past two seasons. He won his spurs in 1969 as a rookie, when, in an exhibition game, he returned a punt 86 yards for a touchdown against the New York Giants. It was the first meeting between the two New York clubs.

Off-field antics, such as demonstrations on how to chew glass and turn over cars, made Battle popular with New York fans and teammates.

Battle was a victim of the down-to-4 rule of the NFL which was in effect for Tuesday. Teams had to trim their rosters to 44 players or less.
Next Tuesday, prior to the start of the regular campaign, it's down to 40.

Surprisingly there weren't too many well-known names among those cut Tuesday. A pair of veteran linebackers, Ed Weiscosky and Ted Davis, were placed on waivers by the Miami Dolphins.

The San Francisco 49ers said they wouldn't reveal until today the names of the five players it cut.

And the New England Patriots cut rookie Sam Adams, a guard and namesake of a New England patriot of Revolutionary War days.

Hog Mentor Remembers the Whites

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

—Joe Gibbs remembers Sherman White and O. Z. White all too well.

Gibbs was offensive line coach at Southern Cal last year when California, led by Sherman and O. Z., upset the Trojans 13-10.

Gibbs, now offensive line coach at the University of Arkansas, will get another look at Sherman and O. Z. Saturday night when the seventh-ranked Razorbacks play California at Little Rock.

"I remember them all right," Gibbs said. "They put a few lumps on our heads last year."

Soph Looking Good for Mustangs

Maxson is making a strong surge for a starting berth on the Southern Methodist football team which meets Oklahoma
Sept. 18 in Norman.

Maxson rushed nine times for a staggering 163 yards and set up three touchdowns Tuesday as the Mustangs ripped through a two hour scrimmage.

Quarterback Gary Mammont
also looked good, rushing for 112 yards on 17 carries and scoring on a three-yard run.

"We've thrown a lot of football at these guys," said Coach Hayden Fry. "We've seen 85 to 90 per cent of all the offensive and defensive alignments we're going to see all year. They didn't look real sharp but they're getting better."

Texas A&M Coach Gene Stallings reported his squad in improved physical condition with the Aggies' opener against Wichita State only four days away.

"We're in pretty good shape," Stallings said. "Quarterback Lex James will be ready but we still have two or three players who are doubtful."

Texas Christian Coach Jim Pittman was displeased with the Horned Frogs' scrimmage Tuesday, saying "It was a mediocre scrimmage. We made so many mistakes."

TCU meets the University of Texas at Arlington Sept. 18 in its opener.

Larry Harris gained 185 yards in 13 carries to highlight the Frog scrimmage.

At Baylor, Coach Bill Beall said he was happy with the "leadership and enthusiasm the boys are showing. I'm keeping my fingers crossed that we don't have any injuries between now and game time."

The Bears play Kansas Sept.
18.

Texas Tech held its final scrimmage before Saturday night's game at Tulane.

Coach Jim Carlen was worried about Tech's kick coverage against fleet All-American candidate Joe Bullard of the Green Wave.

"The thing we need to do against Tulane is not outlook our coverage," said Carlen.
"You just can't let him (Bullard) get his hand on the ball."

Official Says He Falsified Information

CHICAGO (AP) — The general manager and vice president of the California Angels has told a panel deciding the Alex Johnson case he knowingly falsified information which denied that a gun had been pulled on Johnson in the team clubhouse.
The Chicago Sun-Times said Tuesday.

An article by sports-writer
Jerome Holtzman said a secret transcript of the Johnson hearing shows Dick Walsh knowingly falsified the truth of Johnson's charge, that teammate Chico Ruiz pulled a gun on Johnson June 13 when the two players were alone in the Angels' clubhouse.

The article said Walsh made the admission Aug. 29 during the first day of the Johnson grievance which is being heard by a three-man arbitration panel.

Johnson was suspended without pay June 26. The Major League Players Association, on his behalf, is charging that the American League's 1970 batting chump is being wrongfully denied his full salary.

It said the paper learned that the following exchange occurred between Walsh and the panel:

Q.—"Isn't it a fact that you announced you conducted investigation of the gun incident and then issued a statement you found no gun?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"But you knew there was

A.—"Yes."

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Have read much about the pill, but can't find the answers to my questions. 1.) After stopping the pill do menstrual periods resume normally within the next 30 or so days? 2.) If one is in her late 40s, could it cause menstrual cycles when irregularity or cessation would normally occur? 3.) If a woman stops taking the pills and doesn't have periods, is this an indication of menopause? 4.) Will going off the pill induce a menopause effect in her (irregularity and hot flashes)?

Dear Reader — Actually, birth control pills are just combinations of the hormones a woman normally produces. One of these hormones (progesterone) is secreted during pregnancy and has the effect of preventing any more ova from being released, thus preventing a second pregnancy in the already pregnant uterus. A lot of the dangers ascribed to birth control pills are less likely to occur with the pill than they are with a pregnancy.

1. Most women do resume normal menstrual cycles when the pill is stopped, but since this is a complex balance between the pituitary gland under the brain and the reproductive organs, it doesn't always happen. To keep the total glandular system in balance, some doctors stop the pill at intervals to give the system a chance to function normally. Of course, you could get pregnant while you are off the pill.

2. Yes, some pills can

Opinions on Operation Differ

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's declaration a month ago that U.S. forces in Vietnam are in defensive positions, they are actively engaged in two offensive operations in the northern quarter of the country.

The U.S. Command does not acknowledge the term offensive in its military announcements these days.

"Active defense is what we're conducting," says Col. Phillip H. Stevens, a spokesman for Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. "A passive defense is sitting and waiting for something to happen."

While U.S. offensive operations have been cut drastically in number and size, there have been instances where American forces have been sent in to bail out faltering South Vietnamese troops.

Such moves contradict the Nixon administration's and the U.S. Command's contention that American forces are patrolling only to the degree of maintaining close-in security for U.S. bases.

One little publicized current operation is roughly 30 miles south of Da Nang in the Que Son and Hiep Duc valleys region, dominated for years by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

South Vietnamese forces were unable to secure the region, and a fresh North Vietnamese regiment was reported to have moved in. Some 700 U.S. troops from the 196th Bri-

U.S. Sending Official to Moscow to Discuss Harassments on Seas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported about to send a top Pentagon official to Moscow to start negotiating an end to high-seas harassments and similar cold-war-type naval incidents.

The October mission by Undersecretary of the Navy John W. Warner is believed the first in which a high-ranking U.S. defense official has traveled to the Russian capital for significant discussion with Soviet authorities. Normally, such chores are handled by diplomats.

Warner, a lawyer, is director of the Pentagon's new Office of Ocean Affairs. Among his responsibilities is preparation of Defense Department positions on such issues as the law of the sea and the right of passage through various straits.

Nixon administration sources indicate the United States took the initiative in arranging Warner's trip, picturing the mission in the context of gradugated in the Da Nang area were dispatched south to reoccupy two firebases that had been turned over to the South Vietnamese last April.

An armored cavalry unit from the U.S. Americal Division also was sent into the region and in the span of a few days lost eight men killed, a score wounded and several vehicles destroyed.

People who need help in keeping a secret will never get a job in OUR zoo.

al movement toward U.S.-Soviet agreement on such basic questions as strategic-arms limitations and mutual force reductions in Europe.

Officials suggest the United States and Russia share concerns in the face of rapidly spreading claims by other countries to extended limits of national waters, sometimes up to 200 miles from shore.

One Pentagon source called the Warner mission a breakthrough.

The history of the cold war is pockmarked by complaints from the United States and Russia about high-seas harassment.

American commanders have told of Soviet trawlers in the Tonkin Gulf cutting in front of U.S. aircraft carriers to disrupt plane landings, of Russian destroyers grazing U.S. vessels during an exercise in the Sea of Japan, of Soviet ships steaming through American naval formations in the Mediterranean.

Last year a Soviet trawler, reported equipped with electronic monitoring gear, came within about 200 yards of the Polaris submarine James Madison off Florida while the sub was preparing to test a multi-warhead Poseidon missile. The firing was postponed.

Several years ago, Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Soviet Navy, accused U.S. naval commanders of "evil intentions" in sailing near Russian fleet units. And, the military newspaper Red Star claimed once that an American destroyer "tried literally to shoulder aside a submarine" taking supplies from a tender in the Mediterranean.

Catholics Rebuff Peace Feeler

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic opposition leaders rebuffed a British peace feeler today and a Protestant politician warned of the possibility of all-out civil war in Northern Ireland.

Fears of an impending new offensive by gunmen of the outlawed Irish Republican Army—IRA—brought Britain's top soldier to Northern Ireland's capital to assess the military situation.

Three bombs exploded in Belfast early today, one at an army veterans club, another at a small factory, and the third at a shop. Five persons were injured and taken to hospitals.

A British soldier guarding barracks in Newry was shot in the foot by a gunman. The soldier returned the fire, but the army said it was not known whether the gunman was hit.

The British peace move was announced in London Tuesday after two days of summit talks between Prime Ministers Edward Heath of Britain and Jack Lynch of Ireland ended in complete disagreement over how to stop the bloodshed. One hundred lives have been lost in the past two years.

British Home Secretary Reginald Maudling invited all sections of Northern Ireland's feuding communities to a roundtable conference. Its aim would be to give the Catholic minority "an active, permanent and guaranteed role" in the British province ruled by Protestants for 50 years.

Heath had refused to give Lynch a direct say in creating safeguards for northern Catholics. In turn, Lynch refused to join in a three-way meeting with Brian Faulkner, Northern Ireland's prime minister.

But Maudling insisted that all who attend the conference must renounce violence and civil disobedience. His proposal was turned down by the Social Democratic and Labor party and by the Civil Rights Association, which claims to speak for most northern Catholics.

"The talks stand no chance of getting off the ground," said Bernadette Devlin, member of the British Parliament and a leader in the civil disobedience campaign protesting the government's internment of more than 200 IRA suspects.

Miss Devlin and other influential Catholics were urged by Basil Glass, chairman of the pro-government Alliance party, to join the talks or "civil war becomes inevitable."

"It would be a civil war that no one can win and in which countless families will be bereaved," Glass said.

Official sources meanwhile disclosed the arrival in Belfast of Gen. Sir Michael Carver, chief of Britain's general staff.

Ligon to Be Information Officer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Stark Ligon, public information officer for the Department of Industrial Development, has joined the staff of Gov. Dale Bumpers as an administrative aide.

Ligon, 26, said his duties would include research and making travel arrangements for the governor and that he probably would handle some press relations work. However, he said he would not be the governor's press secretary. Bumpers has no news aide.

Austin School Decision Is Appealed

By MIKE DUFFY
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Austin, Tex., school desegregation plan, cited by President Nixon in his criticism of busing, has been appealed by the Justice Department.

In a brief filed Tuesday with the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, the department said busing should be selective to eliminate segregation from schools where it exists but should not be district-wide.

It asked the appeals court to reverse a U.S. District Court decision approving a plan drawn up by the Austin school board and to return the case to the lower court for development of a new plan to eliminate discrimination against Mexican-American students.

A plan suggested by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which called for extensive busing was rejected by Nixon who said, "I am opposed to busing of children simply for the sake of busing."

The school board plan called for pupils in 40 of the city's 55 elementary schools to be taken for part of each day one week out of four to centers for "intercultural" learning. The rest of the time they would remain in schools with their original racial makeup.

The HEW plan called for busing pupils to achieve a racial balance in each school equal to that of the district as a whole. The district's student body of 55,000 last school year was 65 per cent Anglo, 20 per cent Mexican-American and 15 per cent black.

The Justice Department brief said:

"It now appears that the evidence as to de jure discrimination against Mexican-Americans does not extend to all Mexican-American schools as assumed by the HEW plan. 'Therefore, the court should decide at which schools there is proof of discrimination and should limit its relief to eradicating the effects of that discrimination.'"

The school board plan called for black high school pupils to be assigned to schools "not identifiable as Negro schools," busing 2,350 of them.

The brief said the plan attacked the vestiges of discrimination against blacks but left virtually untouched similar patterns of discrimination against Mexican-Americans.

It attacked the District Court's finding that there was no legal discrimination against Mexican-Americans, citing construction of "Mexican" schools, the drawing of schools districts to avoid mixing of Mexicans and Anglos and closing of some schools where such mixing was inevitable.

It said "approximately 77 per cent of the district's black students and 59 per cent of the district's Mexican-American students" attended schools in East Austin which were "over 90 per cent minority."

"BOOST THE BOBCATS"

Taking Look at Senior Bobcats

Star Sports Writer

Rodney Burke—Weighing 175 pounds and standing 5-10, Rodney will wear number 64 for his last football season at Hope. "Has developed into a good blocker and hitter."

Richard Butler—Standing 6-0 and weighing 165 pounds, Richard will start his second straight year wearing number 76 as a possible all-stater. Going both ways at tackle this year, he wears number 73 while standing 6-3 and weighing 210 pounds. "Has possibly the best potential on the team with hard hitting ability."

David Powers—Mostly called "Bubba" by everyone, Powers is a 6-3, 225 pound defensive tackle. Wearing number 69 he is a good rusher with winning attitude. "A fine player with a lot of winning pride."

Rusty Quillen—Returning for his third starting season, Rusty stands at 5-11 and weighs 160 pounds. Another two-way starter at running back and monsterman, he wears number 22. While playing guard this year. "A fine blocker with a lot of desire to win."

David Chance—Injured in the Red-White scrimmage, David will wear number 86 when he returns to full speed. He stands 6-2 and weighs 160. "Can catch ball and is still improving."

Kenneth Ellis—Although small at 5-7, Kenneth makes up for his size with a lot of hustle and hard hitting. Weighing 140 pounds he will wear number 27. "Has developed into good pass defender."

Tommy Frazier—Wearing number 11, standing 5-10, and weighing 155 pounds, Tommy now takes over as the Cats field general for the 1971 season. "Good passing arm with fine execution."

Steve Harris—Standing 5-11 and weighing 170 pounds, Steve will wear number 15 while performing as a two-way starter. Also has excellent chance for post season honors. "One of Hope's best linebackers and a very hard hitter."

Ralph Martin—Starting at noseman this year, Ralph is a 5-7, 172 pounder, wearing number 61. Also possesses speed and quickness. "Good attitude and a lot of desire."

Tommy Miller—Weighing 150 pounds and standing 5-9, Tommy will wear number 30 while seeing a lot of action for the Cats this fall. He is also the team punter. "A good hustler with speed and blocking ability."

Lynn Norton—A starter since junior high, Lynn starts the year "Good runner with aggressive-ness on defense."

Alphonse Roy—A 6-1, 180 pounder, Alphonse is out for his second year of football wearing number 79. Should see some action for the Cats this fall. "Good hitter who wants to play."

Rodney Steele—Standing at 6-0 and weighing 185 pounds, Rodney will wear number 74 while starting at Anchor End after a years experience on the B-team. Also is pretty good blocker on offense. "Good pursuit and a winning attitude."

Jack Turner—Standing 5-9 and weighing 138 pounds, Jack will wear number 42. Although at a size disadvantage, he hopes to make up for it with plenty of hustle. "Still improving and should see action."

Ray Wheelington—Starting this year as a two-way player also, Ray will wear number 44 while standing 5-11 and weighing 168 pounds. Another possible all-district, he possesses a good winning attitude with a lot of hustle. "Good speed and quickness with good blocking and running ability and pass defending ability."

Tim White—At 6-1, 205 pounds, Tim is already well broken into the starting lineup at offensive left tackle. Wearing number 77 he also handles all the extra point kicking duties. "Good sized blocker with plenty of hustle and desire to win."

Junior Bobcats

Randy Bobo—Standing 5-9 and weighing 135 pounds, Randy will wear number 26. Should gain valuable experience from the G-team. "A sticker who wants to play."

Robbie Boyd—Moving to Hope this summer, Robbie will gain valuable quarterbacking experience on the B-team this year and could see varsity action some. He wears number 10 and weighs 155 pounds. "Improving a lot and wants to play."

Mike Downs—After gaining experience as a B-teamer last year, Mike will serve as a two-way starter at center and linebacker for the Cats this year in his number 54 jersey. He stands 6-2 and weighs 183 pounds. "Good hustler and learning well."

Wade Harris—Now starting at blood end and wearing number 66, Wade weighs 173 pounds. He broke his nose in the scrimmage game but it shouldn't slow him down a bit. "Hard hitter with good winning effort."

Ricky Hart—Although playing with a hurt hand, Ricky will see some action at end weighing 155 pounds in his number 84 jersey. "A good receiver who can also block."

Buddy Ingram—Starting for the second straight time at flanker, Buddy will see all of his action in jersey number 12. He weighs 150 pounds and stands 5-10. "Fine receiver with blocking ability and winning attitude."

F. L. Reynolds—Wearing number 23 and weighing 140 pounds, F. L. stands 5-9. Will gain B-team experience. "A sticker who wants to play."

Casey Smith—Standing at a little over 5-9, Casey weighs 143 pounds and plays end. Wearing number 87, he should see some action and gain experience. "Wanting to play and learning well."

Melvin Weston—Standing 5-8 and weighing 180 pounds, Melvin will wear number 24 and see action as a running back. As a possible future starter he will gain experience. "Has good speed and can also catch ball besides running with it."

Sophomore Bobcats

David Bain—Playing center this year, David will probably play on the B-team weighing 184 and standing 6-0. He wears number 55. "A sticker who will see action on B-team."

Jerrell Coleman—Wearing number 83, Jerrell stands 5-11 and weighs 145 pounds. Will play some at end. "He is a fairly good

Prescott Curley Wolves Should Be Among the State's Best in 1971

Returning 16 lettermen from a team that finished 9-4 last season, Prescott's Curley Wolves should be among the best in 1971.

Coach Charles Montgomery welcomes back nine starters, three on offense and six on defense, and a fine group of upcoming sophomores to add team depth.

Montgomery will have no problem at quarterback with Freddie Wren, a two year letterman, back for his senior season, weighing in at 175 pounds. Junior Ronnie Johnson should add backup depth with sophomore Joey Shaver also available.

Senior halfback Roosevelt Murphy will probably get the call for most of the running with either of sophomores Jerry Flemmons or Hilton McDonald also seeing quite a bit of action.

While center is solid with veteran senior Ricky Marlar, a 175 pound prospect for post season honors, the tackles appear to be the biggest problems. With no one returning to these two positions with any experience, Montgomery will probably give two sophomores, Danny Gillard and Martin Jamison, first shot at landing the positions.

Although David Gordan, a senior guard, both have their positions apparently nailed down, another end and guard are needed and both are still questionable.

Defensively with six starters returning, Prescott seems to have all the positions taken after a look at spring training.

Senior noseguard John Coe, a 180 pounder, will hold down the middle of the line, while on each side will be tackles Allen Loe and John Mitchell. Loe is 180 pound senior while Mitchell weighs in at 170. Both have a years experience.

Rugged Jim Jones returns for his senior season at linebacker weighing 150 pounds with Junior Doug Guthrie slated to start beside him at the other linebacking slot.

Veteran Kenneth VanHook returns to his end slot this year with Danny Beavert expected to start at left end, while the defensive secondary returns intact with Terry Spearman, Jeff

Thinks Hope Bobcat Centers Will Top Dist. 4AA

With a new district name and a lot of confusion in the early going, the old 4AA teams will be eager to start the season and see who will rule the roost in '71.

Last season everyone figured it was Arkadelphia all the way to the top of class AA ball—and they were right—until the championship game with Stuttgart! This year the race will be very tight.

Although wrong about last years' selection, this year is again Hope because they look like they have the best of anyone.

Returning 12 lettermen, the Bobcats will boast a fine passing attack to go with some strong running and the Cat defense will be among the loop's best. Hope is also quick and fast as a whole.

Camden will get the nod for the number two spot, returning a top quarterback with some good sized players, while Arkadelphia places right behind. Although the Badgers lost their whole offensive line, a tough defense will return and they have a one man running game.

Malvern will put up a good fight for top honors, returning a lot of personnel for a fine defense. Now, all they need is a good offense. As for the rest—it's anyone's guess.

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

National Conference: Western Division --ATLANTA FALCONS

PROSPECTUS — How long can Dutch Van Brocklin keep calm while losing? How long can California go without an earthquake? Falcons have never been winner, though he got them close two years ago. Concentration here has focuses on putting more points on scoreboard. They're already on verge of respectable defense. They better explode on offense, or Dutch will.

Offense

PASSING — Gummy little (5-11) Bob Berry stays on job because he's Van Brocklin's kind of guy. Randy Johnson's threatened retirement didn't stick, but he has to beat out Berry, whose passing stats are quite good (58% completion). Rating—B-.

RUNNING — Prospectively a lot of world beaters—Cannonball Butler, Paul Gipson, Art Malone, Harmon Wages. Drafted Joe Profit, strong prospect to win starting job and shove any or all of others to bench. Rating—B.

RECEIVING—Falcons will match their Jim Mitchell with any tight end in game. In fact, he's best receiver on club, period. Got by last couple of years with old, slow guys in wide spots, but they're now gone and the field is wide open. Todd Snyder, no speed burner either, should grab one job. Fine opportunity for young Ken Burrow. Rating—B-.

LINE—At one time, it was Falcons' hope of future, but injuries decimated unit last couple of years and now it's hodge-podge. Leader should be tackle George Kunz if he's O.K. The other kids are still there—Dick Enderle, Jeff Van Note, Mal Snider—but no longer regarded as "wunderkinder." Van Brocklin wants to settle on steady unit. Rating—C+.

Defense

LINE — Exceptionally strong on terminals, where Claude Humphrey already rates with the Ellers and Joneses as pass-rushing terror and John Zook isn't far behind. If Carlton Dabney, decked by injury, could come back strong, it would boost middle considerably. They're expecting bigger and better things inside from Greg Lens, second-year man. Rating—B+.

LINEBACKING — Best stocked department on club. Tommy Nobis in middle doesn't need credentials detailed. You toss coin and choose him or Butkus as prototype. Don Hansen on weak side should get lot more notice. Greg Brezina comes back from year off for injury to duel Grady Allen for third job. And John Small concentrates on linebacking this year after shot up front. Rating—A-.

SECONDARY — One definite classy performer is Ken Reeves, a Falcon original, who keeps improving every year. Other corner, Rudy Redmond, is a hitter also and might be switched to safety if some of the rookie crop show well. Otherwise, Tom McCauley, Grady Cavness fill out unit. Rating—B.

KICKING—Has to be recast. Need both punter, placekicker and search is on. Rating—C.

Prediction:

An outside chance for first winning campaign. Third in Western Division.

AN ACTIVE DRIVER — FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Herve Filion, North America and Freehold Raceway's leading driver the past three years, will seek top honors here again this fall. The daytime meet, which opened Aug. 9, runs through Nov. 30.

Filion, whose goal is 500 winners this year, will commute regularly between here and Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, N.Y.

Last year Filion set a record with 486 winners.

Prospects at Nashville Brighter

Finishing with a 5-4 record and second place in class 7A ball last year, the outlook is very bright in Scraperland for Nashville's upcoming season.

Under new head coach Ronnie Bell Nashville returns 17 lettermen, including seven starters each way.

With a lot of size, speed, and experience, the Scrappers appear headed for a great season, although a couple of games scheduled with AA schools could slow things up a bit.

First off, the Scrappers have practically the whole offensive backfield returning, with Bobby Keaster running things from the quarterback slot. Keaster is a 160 pound senior.

Although Allen Ray has departed, little Rony Briggs, a 140 pound halfback who shared starting duties last year, returns for his senior year and many times he will have in front of him a blockbusting fullback to lead the way in Larry Ray. Briggs had several fine performances last season.

Split end Randy Walston will do much of the receiving from Keaster. Walston, a 150 pound senior, is also the Scrappers main kicker.

Three members of the offensive line return—center Floyd Clark, guard Ricky Ritchie, and tackle Joey Jamison. Ritchie is the smallest at 145 pounds while Jamison is the largest at 215.

Defensively, the whole front wall will return thus giving Nashville a boost for experienced blocking.

Two of the main reasons for a tough defense will be Bobby Brown and Frank Sellers. Brown is 6'3" and Sellers is 6'. Both weigh 210 and are juniors.

Walston, Ray, and Ritchie will probably all see action as two way starters. Ritchie will probably play monster with Walston and Ray returning to lead the secondary, which should prove to be very tough this year.

This will be Bell's first year as head coach and he has the material for the makings of a fine team. A lot will probably depend on how healthy everyone stays. And although Nashville is rated a possible title favorite, they'll probably have to again settle for second place behind Prescott.

EIGHT ARTIFICIAL

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State, which played all 10 of its 1970 football games on artificial surfaces, will perform on synthetic grass in eight of 11 contests this fall.

Spartan Stadium, equipped with Tartan Turf since 1969, will be the site of all five home games. Away from home, State will play on brand new stadium floors at Georgia Tech and at Ohio State, and on the Big Ten's oldest new surface at Wisconsin.

Only at Notre Dame, Purdue and Northwestern will the Spartans be performing on real grass.

COACH RONNIE HIGGINS

Likes Hogs in the SW Conference

Usually an easy choice, between Texas and Arkansas, for the loop crown, this year should be a fairly tough one, with Texas Tech and possibly Texas A&M entering the race.

After comparing teams for the last few years it was fairly easy to see that it was between Texas and Arkansas for the title, but looking this year one might take a second glance and still not be sure.

Of course, as everyone already knows, the Longhorns are the favored team to take it all again, but are they? Texas lost some key personnel to graduation and although they have a fine group of sophomores coming up, they still have to fill the vacated positions just right.

Hog Heaven took a heavy blow last December and it will be interesting to see if they can come back up quick enough. The defense is way behind the offense but with Arkansas' talents they could be sky high in 1971!

And now comes Texas Tech—vastly improved on defense with a hard plowing running game. Tech's only concern will be getting a good passing attack and keeping everyone healthy.

No one can count Texas A&M out of it either. Aggieland returns 46 battlescarred lettermen with plenty of game experience. The Aggies feel its turn to dish out some bad medicine.

As for the rest of the SWC—well, TCU could pull a few tricks out of the old hat, and Rice could surprise a few people, but that is doubtful. Besides, look at the Owls' schedule. SMU and Baylor both have rebuilding years, but they'll win a couple each—at least.

SURPRISE!

Hoople Pegs Wildcats Over Michigan; Oregon Ducks to Whip Cornhuskers

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Fearless Forecaster

Egad, friends, the 1971 collegiate football season will get off to a rousing start this Saturday. Would you believe Northwestern over Michigan in an opening day Big Ten showdown? Or the Oregon Ducks to shock the Nebraska Cornhuskers?

Astounding, you say? It can't be? Well, dear readers, those are but two of the startling surprises the Hoople System has for you on this week's card—har-rumph!

In the Oregon-Nebraska encounter look for the Ducks' brilliant quarterback Don Fouts to lead his club to a come-from-behind 30-28 triumph over the defending national champion Nebraska forces.

At Evanston, Illinois, the Northwestern Wildcats will turn back the favored Michigan Wolverines by the margin of a field goal, 17-14. This should be one of the best shows of the day, matching the passing arm of Maurice Daigneau against the Wolves' great runners Glenn Doughty and Billy Taylor.

A third surprise is in store for the viewers of the Pittsburgh-UCLA contest at Los Angeles, as the visiting Panthers squeeze by the Uclans, 24-20.

In other top-rated engagements LSU will conquer Colorado, 18-7. Kentucky will edge Clemson by a 17-14 count, and Duke will fall before the aerial wizardry of Florida's John Reeves, 22-10.

Elsewhere it will be Arkansas 27, California 20, the host Ohio State Buckeyes by a 35-7 tally over Iowa. Georgia Tech in a stiff encounter with South Carolina will prevail by a narrow one-point margin, 21-20, and Toledo will stretch its undefeated string to 24 as quarterback Chuck Ealey launches a strong bid for All-America honors as the Rockets smash East Carolina, 41-12.

will get a real treat as powerful Grambling and Morgan State tangle in New York. Grambling's fabled leader Eddie Robinson, starting his 31st year as head man, has built his attack around 6-6, 225-pound quarterback Matt Reed. Morgan State will counter with a brilliant running game featuring John Sykes who reminds this veteran observer—kaff-kaff—of a youthful Leroy Kelly! I predict a Grambling victory, 35-21—um-kumph!

Offensive Ends

Leopards of Malvern to Be Strong

Coming off a 3-6-1 year, the Malvern Leopards appear to have a tough team back, with 15 lettermen returning, including five starters each way.

Leopard coach David Alpe should have enough size and experience for the makings of a contender, and he's got some pretty good seniors to lead the way.

Starting in the offensive backfield, Alpe will probably go with senior David Pennington, a 150 pound quarterback. Should the need arise, Malvern also has several other signal callers to choose from.

This year the Leopards have a trio of running backs in Gary Wilks, Paul Calway, and Richard Hathcock. Wilks, a 150 pound junior, will probably see duty at tailback, while Calway and Hathcock, both seniors, will start at wingback and slotback.

Only center Kim Lashlee, a 170 pound senior, returns in the offensive line which could cause a ball control problem unless able replacements are found for the open positions. Prospects are Roger Voss, Jimmy Lawrence, and Tony Moore.

Returning guard Allen Petray, a 6'3", 220 pound senior, heads up the defensive alignment with tackles Malcolm Mowdy and Dwain Burkes also up front. Both are seniors and weigh over 190 pounds each.

Mark Burris, a 190 pound senior guard, is expected to play opposite of Petray. He saw

Graduation Badly Hurt Sheridan

Star Sports Writer

Last fall the Sheridan Yellowjackets finished season play with a 2-6 record and lost many letterman to graduation.

And although returning only nine lettermen for the 1971 season Sheridan expects to once again be a title contender, after last years slump, but many positions will have to be filled quickly.

Offensively, the backfield is still questionable with some possible changing up in store while the line could use some more big men up front. One returning runner could be Bill Shinn.

Much of the responsibility this year will be on guards Wayne Easterly and Randy Blake, two returning linemen. Easterly is the largest at 170 pounds with Blake up to about 160.

Senior tackle Eddie Koon, a possible two-way starter, is also back and at 195 pounds he should prove to be valuable to the Jackets forward wall this year.

Although the defense will probably need an overhauling, the secondary will be fairly intact with Tommy Ware and Danny Young returning for fine seasons. Ware is a 165 pounder with Young weighing slightly less at 160. Both are expected to have good seasons.

Experience will be the main problem for Sheridan and lack of size could hurt too, but to the

TOURING PROS

Groups of pro basketball players from the American and National Basketball Associations are traveling in the Far East visiting American servicemen on USO tours.

Chicago Bulls coach Dick Motta is heading an NBA delegation that includes Bob Love, McCoy McLemore, Dale Schlueter, Don Nelson, Steve Kuberski, Hank Finkel, Garfield Smith, Rex Morgan and Luther Rackley.

The ABA players on tour are Mel Daniels, Mike Barrett, Ira Harge, Gene Little, Levern Tart, John Beasley, Steve Jones, Stew Johnson, and Joe Caldwell.

HIS OWN MAN

Willie Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers having the best season of his 12-year career, attributes his 1971 success to a return to his natural style. After imitating Stan Musial and Matty Alou with indifferent success in previous seasons he has reverted to his own stance this year. "I never really hit until I became Willie Davis," he said.

DeQueen Has 14 Starters Returning

Returning 14 lettermen from a team that finished 2-8, the DeQueen Leopards appear to be in the position to give other 7A opponents some stiff competition this year.

Head coach Wayne Freppon welcomes back eight starters with at least 10 other positions already expected to fill up.

Returning to head up the offensive backfield will be senior Steve Halter, a 155 pound all-district selection for the tailback slot. Halter will take the handoffs from either Junior Penny or Chuck Barnhill, both vying for the starting quarterback role.

Also in the backfield will be Gary Bell, a 170 pound senior fullback. Bell will have relief help from Dean Cooper, a 179 pounder, although Cooper's first obligation will be as one of the defensive stalwarts at linebacker.

Doing the snapping chores at center will most likely be Jay Davis, a 160 pounder, with James Cobb and Joey Barnhill on each side of him at the guards. Cobb is the largest, weighing about 170 pounds.

Returnee Stan Thompson, a 195 pounder heads up the list of tackles with J.D. Price and Kerwin Prewitt the best prospects to win starting jobs. Prewitt weighs 195 and Price weighs 182.

Steve Jones, a 180 pound senior, and Scott Russell, also a senior, will hold down both ends with David Deen and Doug Yates expected to give them some competition.

Two halfbacks, Allen Stanford and Steve Taylor, will hold down most of the secondary, which might prove to be a weak spot. Taylor is a 160 pound senior while Stanford is only a 140 pounder.

Offhand, the Leopards appear to possess a very much improved team, with some experience and fairly good size. Freppon should come up with a winning team, but even though providing some good stiff competition, DeQueen will probably not make it to the playoffs.

Camden May Not Be So Strong

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Returning only 10 of 36 lettermen from last years' squad, the Camden Panthers may have trouble matching last years' 8-1 seasonal record.

Coach George Burkes' main concern will probably be the defense where only one starter, Dean Jamerson, returns.

Jamerson, the Panthers linebacker will be the veteran of the defensive alignment with every other position completely open. He is a senior weighing 160 pounds.

Offensively, everything looks very bright with six regulars now returning—all with good experience and size.

Leading the way will be senior quarterback Gordan Parham, a 160 pounder with a good throwing arm. Parham's main receiver will be Stan Perryman, a 195 pound senior with excellent chance for post season honors.

Much of the running game will come from tailback Thomas Willis, a 160 pound senior, with halfback Ken Morris also expected to see a lot of running duty. Morris is a senior 170 pounder.

Paul Lindsey and Joe McCaffery should team up to give Camden a fine combination of tackles in the offensive line. Lindsey weighs 205 pounds and is slated for possible honors with McCaffery weighted at 185. Both will be about the only veteran linemen.

Possibly Camdens most soundest unit is their kicking game which could prove to be the best in the league. And if the Panthers can field respectable units on both sides, Camden may be the team to beat in 7AA this season. But we'll wait and see.

Long-Term Football Contracts

WEAK LINK

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—The predilection of National Football League teams for locking top talent into multi-year playing contracts has contributed strongly to the player unrest which has been diffused throughout the sport the last couple of years.

The case of Duane Thomas of the Dallas Cowboys, who got extremely unhappy in the second year of a three-year contract, is the 1971 cause celebre, but by no means unique.

This year, Bubba Smith and Roy Jefferson of the Baltimore Colts also expressed unhappiness over their long-term bondage, and now Jefferson is running pass patterns for the Washington Redskins. Jerry LeVias, traded to San Diego from Houston, wanted to see his salary scale changed and didn't report. Bennie McRae of the Chicago Bears is so unhappy he won't show up.

The dissatisfaction has reached the point where Art Modell, the president of the Cleveland Browns and a leading policy-maker in the game, has completely changed his philosophy in player dealings.

"With the social unrest that's inflicted (sic) society," says Modell, "I prefer now to deal with them year by year. I used to think the multi-year contract was a good thing but no more in today's social climate."

Modell estimates that one-quarter of the Brown veterans are still tied to contracts that run longer than one year, but he'll phase them out. The exception he makes is in the case of rookies.

"It's good for rookies to sign for more than one year," he explains, "because they can then amortize their bonus over a period of time. But after that initial contract, I'm going to sign them yearly. I've been in this business 11 years, and you have no idea how the attitudes of players have changed."

Another owner, Al Davis of the Oakland Raiders, feels much of that change has been stimulated by the proliferation of agents and lawyers.

"Lawyers are showing them the way they can shelter their money," says Davis, "and they're also trying to get them extra money for their own 10 per cent."

The pluses of the long-term contract are that a player gets a semblance of security (though he still has to fulfill its terms physically) and the owner saves the aggravation of dickering every year while getting a better idea of how he can budget his operation.

The minus is that a player signs for three or four years, immediately has a great season and finds that instead of a whooping raise which he might expect normally he's locked into the terms of his contract.

But a player can be pressured into it. Daryle Lamonica, holding out this year, actually wanted to sign for one year but was persuaded to settle for a two-year deal (the Raiders initially wanted to lock him in for three years).

"You sign something," says George Blanda, the hard-nosed veteran quarterback, "you got to live up to it. I have no sympathy for him."

Theoretically, a player of star status or a publicized first-round draft choice doesn't need the security of a long-term deal because as long as he's physically capable he'll make the team, and he doesn't have to worry about a bad season reducing his salary. "We've never cut a player's salary," says Modell. "We'd release him first."

One NFL owner, obviously speaking off the record, said, "The established star is crazy if he signs for more than one year."

12 Returning to Cards at Fairview

Star Sports Writer

Returning only 12 lettermen from a 2-7-1 team the Fairview Cardinals have a lot of rebuilding ahead of them once again, although there should be some improvement.

Offensively, the Cards return half of the line with two members of the backfield. Defensively, only three starters return which could prove to be trouble.

Quarterback Stephen Johnson, a 150 pound senior, returns to the helm of the offensive attack with tailback Ray Porchia, a 170 pound senior his main runner. Porchia has exceptional speed and is also a good receiver and blocker.

Center Benny Vestel returns to anchor the line, weighing 190 pounds in his senior season. Other returnees are Cleothus Ferguson and David Wheelington. Ferguson is a 170 pound senior with Wheelington returning for his senior season weighing at 175.

Anyone of a number of others could win the other lineman jobs with top prospects for the slots being Roger Copperr, Steve Crumpler, John Sevier, and Edward Shipp.

Defensive tackle Kenny Rains is the only down lineman returning for the Cardinals. He is a senior weighing 190 pounds with plenty of muscle.

Meanwhile Ferguson, also the offensive left guard, will see double duty as the weak-side linebacker with Senior Jacky Carter, a 150 pound halfback leading the secondary.

Anyone of a number of players could win starting jobs and possibly go both ways, and while this doesn't seem to be Fairview's year but with a good team effort they will have a .500 season. And their team is always tough.

Magnolia Should Be Improved

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

With 15 lettermen, including nine starters returning, the Magnolia Panthers have high hopes of improving on their last year's 2-8 record.

Under Coach Don Hubbard, the Panthers return six offensive starters and three defensive regulars to a team that is fairly small, supposedly inexperienced and not very speedy.

Possible quarterbacks for the Panthers are Ken Barker and Mark Whiddon. Barker is a 150 pound junior while Whiddon is a 140 pound senior.

Magnolia should be well established in the running game with halfback Johnny Kincaid leading the way. Kincaid is a 160 pound senior running back with plenty of explosive power. Beside him will be either of fullbacks Tommy Jackson or Gary Miller. Jackson is a 185 pound junior while Miller is 164 pound senior.

Extra help will come from wingback Ricky Moore, a 150 pound senior who can run or catch and block pretty well.

Passing will also be a Panther strong point with two fine tight ends in Jimmy Womack and Paul Kirkpatrick. While both are fairly fast and have good hands. In the offensive line will be guards Ronald Byrd and Paul McMahan, both juniors. Byrd is 175 pounds and McMahan is 180 pounds. Help could come from tackles Clay Dickerson, a 190 pounder, and Bill Elmore, 180 pounder junior. Both could see starting roles in the offensive line.

Defensive halfback Garnett Smith and tackle Mike Bourdine are only two of many possible starters for the defense. Smith is a 150 pound junior and Bourdine, expected to have a standout season, weighs 185 pounds as a senior.

Magnolia's chances of a division title are pretty slim right now but a 500 or better season doesn't seem out of reach. How College Football Looks to Players

By IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Last football season was not altogether filled with glory for Jim Cederna, punter for Central Michigan. During a kicking drill, he received the snap from center, took a couple of serious steps forward and kicked his offensive halfback instead of the pignskin.

Nor were garlands showered upon Steve Haag, a linebacker for San Francisco, when he led his team onto the field for the first home game, tripped, and landed on his chin strap.

Yet there are moments, said Carlos Alvarez, Florida flanker, "when you feel you have conquered and overcome nature, man and yourself." However, Alvarez adds that he doesn't like the way football "has regulated athletes, which has curtailed their personal freedoms, and the way it has become commercialized, thus putting too much emphasis on winning and not on the sport itself."

These were some of the memories and attitudes of college football players included in the provocative 1971 press kit issued by Larry Klein, director of National Collegiate Sports Services, a promotional arm of the NCAA. If there is a more imaginative public-relations man than Klein, he has not yet come out of the woodwork.

Klein asked coaches and sports information directors from around the country to nominate the most interesting and/or intelligent players on their returning squads (unrelated to physical prowess). He then sent a two-page questionnaire to 200 nominees, asking such questions as "Is College Football Relevant?" to "Your Most Embarrassing Moment." The first 60 who replied made his press kit.

Chip Regine

There are built-in hazards to this procedure. Too often, coaches and information directors are anxious to seek out players who mirror their own views of their own generation. And the survey was too broad-based to give detailed responses (and perhaps too careful not to ask such pointed questions as views on race). But what is here gives an interesting insight into some of our nation's more thoughtful college football players.

The question, "What I Like Most About College Football," elicited some typical responses: team effort, competition, comradeship, to the reply by San Francisco safety Mike Conolly: "It has given me the opportunity to be tested. It has let me know a little about the man I keep locked up inside. Emotions seem to run rawer and truer and stronger on stage."

"What I Like Least About College Football" drew some of the most incisive remarks, especially pertaining to coaches:

"The impersonal attitude and distant relationships between coach and player, a loss of the coach-player warmth that exists on high school and small-college levels." (Steve Haag)

"The coaching hierarchy and derogation of players. Some coaches fail to realize the goals of the game." (Brian Houseal, Sr., guard, Colgate)

"Sometimes coaches take fun away from the game and put on pressure." (Chip Regine, Jr., end, Brown)

David Doda of Wake Forest says he dislikes the pain from injuries most of all, and John Roush of Ohio University says he most despises "cruel reality that not all young men can realize the success they had desired."

"The Most Valuable Lesson Learned From College Football":

"The true meaning of discipline, sacrifice and the importance of setting goals as high as the sky and striving for them." (Bill Taylor, tailback, Michigan)

"Because I am deaf, I have to work extra hard to compete and not disappoint the many people who have faith in my ability to play college football." (Gary McBride, tackle, Bowling Green)

And to the question, "The Most Stimulating Work I've Ever Done?":

"Trying to write a short story or poem. It's most frustrating yet rewarding." (Dennis Ferguson, safety, Utah State)

"Being a 6-foot-1, 240-pounder—but underage (20)—bouncer at a bar." (Dave Joyner, tackle, Penn State)

In a poll of four categories unrelated to football, "Patton" got the most votes for "Best Movie I've Ever Seen," "The Bible" was tops for "Best Book," Martin Luther King was the leader for "Dead American Man I Most Admire" and for "Living American Man I Most Admire." The winner was "my father."

RECORDS WILT

Wilt Chamberlain established or extended 11 National Basketball Association records during the 1970-71 season. He now holds records for most career minutes played, most career field goals made and attempted, most career free throws attempted, most career points scored, highest scoring average, most consecutive games without fouling out, most years leading the league in rebounds, most play-off free throws attempted, most career All-Star game rebounds and highest lifetime All-Star field goal percentage.

Football Injuries Studied

By GARY SHENFELD

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — Since 1931, more than one thousand football players have died because no one ever developed proper standards for protective equipment.

Now, a committee formed by the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM) says within two years it will be able to tell sports manufacturers what a safe football helmet should be like.

Dr. Creighton J. Hale, chairman of ASTM's technical committee on protective equipment for sports, is directing the research into how much a human body can take on the gridiron.

"Basically, it's very simple to set standards for safety equipment," he said. "First, in football we must determine what forces are involved, such as players coming together, running into the goal post, or into a wall. Once you establish what takes place, the next problem is to determine just what the human tolerance level is."

Hale explained that football players take different amounts of energy impacts on the head, for example, than they do on the foot. All this is further complicated by the fact that no two players are alike. The thickness of the head is different and so is the mass of the brain. So just how much a person can take varies a great deal among individuals of the same age, and even the same family.

Two football players hitting head-on may develop a force equal to hitting a concrete wall at 20 miles per hour. The greatest potential for injury, however, is when a player, running at full speed, collides with a goal post or a concrete wall.

Hale's group has been working with data obtained from research animals and human cadavers and volunteers. In football, in an effort to determine the acceleration of the human head during impact, instruments have been mounted firmly on the player's head to broadcast data to a receiver on the sidelines. Impacts creating forces more than many times stronger than the pull of gravity were recorded without apparent injury to the player.

"The head is most critical in football," Hale said, "and it must be protected. The brain is situated very loosely inside the skull and has a tendency to move about. It is this moving about that really causes the damage, rupturing the blood vessels."

"Some data claim that professional football players get punchy from too many blows to the head, but there is no factual evidence to prove that claim now."

The ASTM committee is concentrating on the football helmet first because of the number of fatalities in football, most of them involving the head and neck. Since 1931, excluding 1942 when no records were kept, 1,095 football players have died. Of these, 742 were directly attributed to football and 353

Tech Seems Headed for Crown

Returning 31 lettermen from an 8-3 team it appears that the Arkansas Tech Wonder Boys are in the best shape of the AIC teams this season, with Harding and possibly Arkansas A&M fighting for second place.

Tech will be plenty tough returning a team with good size and speed plus some outstanding backs. And with the all-AIC material they have, don't bet they won't go undefeated.

Strongest competition should come from either Harding or Arkansas A&M, but that is very doubtful.

A&M's Boll Weevils finished 1-9 last year but return 22 lettermen with good speed and average size. With an improved defense the Weevils will probably only be worried about finding a quarterback to run the offensive attack. Should they find one, they could have a fine season.

Graduation losses have hurt Hardings chances for a good season but the Bisons should be slightly improved with a fine passing attack. With 25 lettermen back the chances are looking better.

SCA finished 2-8 last year, but to the Bears it wasn't a real rebuilding season, and many freshmen may be used this year, but the Bears say they have one of the best potential quarterbacks in a good while, and that never hurts a team. SCA may finish above .500 but they will need a good team effort.

Ouachita, Henderson, and Southern State all have some rebuilding years, but while I predict Ouachita low on the totem pole they do like to surprise people—and don't bet they won't!

tion for the football player."

Football players for many years would not use helmets because of tradition and the self-conceived image that they could not display their toughness if their heads were protected. Many players were killed and seriously injured during the transition to head protection because intelligent human beings refused to agree that functional protection was more important than tradition.

"Today," Hale said, "it is unlikely that any football player would volunteer to play without a helmet, and the most rugged players, the professionals, are not resisting but are now demanding the best protection available."

Former Hope Bobcats Now in College

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Looking around the AIC this year, one finds several former Hope Bobcats on three of the teams, including four players who were on the 1969 Hope Championship team.

First off, the State College of Arkansas is represented by John Henley and Ronnie Brown. Henley is a 6'3", 220 pound junior center in the starting lineup for the Bears this year, after being named as an honorable mention all-AIC in 1970. Brown is a 6'2", 186 pound sophomore tight end who was all-conference in Hope on the championship team in 1969.

At Henderson, three former Bobcats are on the team. Lyle Jones, a 6'1", 185 pounder, is expected to start for the Reddies this year at one of the linebacking posts, while Mike McQueen and Sidney Waller could also play. McQueen is a 210 pound sophomore and that stands 6'4" and plays defensive tackle. Waller, a 5'10", 160 pound freshman is playing for the Reddies as a defensive back, while being all-conference in

Another former Bobcat, Ronnie Massanelli, was also on the 1969 championship team with all-conference honors in 1970. Massanelli is a 5'11", 170 pound freshman, listed as a quarterback at the University of Arkansas at Monticello and vying for the starting field general's role.

All of these players will probably be meeting each other on the gridiron, representing their respective schools and helping to make the games real exciting.

Of those fatally injured from direct causes, 451 were high school players, 153 sandlot, 66 college and 74 professional and semi-professional. Last year 29 persons died on the gridiron, while 23 players died because of direct football related injury in 1969.

Twenty-six of the fatal 1970 injuries involved the head, neck and spinal cord.

"The head must be protected against low, intermediate or high velocity blows," Dr. Hale remarked. "A high velocity impact will tend to produce a localized perforation or depression of the skull, while a low velocity impact will tend to produce a generalized deformation."

"The problem of developing standards for protective equipment in football is further complicated by responses that may be termed super-human effort. Many players, particularly professional, attempt to develop hostile aggressions toward opponents during the game through self-induced emotional impulses to hate, and even to kill."

It was in 1890 that Yale football players began to let their hair grow long during the summer in order to have additional padding. "Although some of us may deplore the present long hair styles popular among some young males," Hale commented, "long hair would provide some additional protec-

Defensive Line and Linebackers

Champion Badgers Are Not Favored to Repeat Due to Heavy Losses

Can the Arkadelphia Badgers win it all again? It's possible, but not likely.

Returning only nine lettermen, including seven starters, Coach Frank Spainhour has the task of rebuilding most of the offensive forward wall and finding himself an able quarterback to replace allstate Bill Vining.

Offensively, the Badgers only have two returning starters, Jerry Thomason, a 160 pound senior center, and Luther Guinn, the Badgers speedy tailback.

Guinn, 150 pound senior, is one of the best ball carriers in the state, logging the ball as a junior for 1294 yards on 187 tries for a 6.9 yard average. With excellent speed Guinn will be counted on heavily to take up the offensive slack left by the graduation of Gary Anderson and Vining.

Also returning to the offense will be Mack Harris and Gary Davis both seniors, who saw a good bit of action last season. Harris returns at slotback weighing 160 pounds while Davis will probably start at either guard or tackle weighing around 170.

Possibly the most solidified positions are both tackle spots, where seniors David Thomas and Gyrone Buckley return. Although both stand at 6'0", Thomas is five pounds heavier at 185.

Mark Thompson, the only other returning defensive lineman returns at anchor end weighing 185 pounds. Standing at 6'2", Thompson is a senior.

Secondary wise, Steve Tolar and Danny Melton have the head start at both halfbacks slots, but both are also in contention for the number one quarterback job, which would leave only one sure starter. Tolar stands 5'11" and weighs 150 pounds, with Melton weighing 145 pounds in his 5'10" frame.

With losses to graduation and a lot of switching around, some of the players may be seeing action in different positions and while it might look like they could be hurting, don't let it fool you. They'll have a contender!

JOHNSON ADVANCES

Don Johnson has moved into third place in the Professional Bowlers Association standings of lifetime tournament victories. Johnson's 14th career win left him trailing Dick Weber, who leads with 22, and Billy Hardwick, second with 16.

COLTS DOMINATED

The Baltimore Colts had the best record in professional football during the 1960-1970 decade. They were 103-44-5, one game better than the Green Bay Packers. Cleveland was third, Kansas City fourth and San Diego fifth.

Get Chips Rolling

We were talking about saving strokes in your short game. Even if you miss all 18 greens, you can salvage a respectable round if you'll follow the suggestions I will give you.

Club selection on chip shots is a major weakness of the average player. He nearly always takes too lofted a club.

I can't tell you to use a 7-iron for all chips, because these shots vary too much. But I can tell you to get the ball rolling as soon as possible on shots around the green.

Don't try to fly it right up to the pin and stop it with a super amount of backspin. That takes too fine a touch.

Pick the club that will carry the ball onto the green and roll it to the hole without going way past. My theory is that if the ball is rolling on the green there are fewer bad things that can befall it. It can't take a screwy bounce. The wind can't affect it.

Over a thousand shots, you'll come out way ahead by getting those chips shot rolling as soon as possible.

Brodie Had Cure for Starr

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA)

WEST COAST REPORT: John Brodie, the 49er quarterback with the revived arm and new beaming personality, actually believes Bart Starr could have saved himself the trouble of arm surgery and been saved for Green Bay this year—if he'd just consulted John. Brodie's hooked on controversial scientology, says the mental gymnastics dissolved the pain in his arm last year and would have done the same for Starr. "I told him to call me," he shrugs.

The breakdown of the LA Dodgers as a pennant contender this year occurs when Richie Allen and Maury Wills, team's most celebrated stars, play the left side of the infield at the same time. Wills at short just can't cover the ground any more.

The reason Ron Mix came back to pro football at the advanced age of 33 had nothing to do with romantic yearning to be back in the old battle pit (after a year's siesta with law books). Ron simply wants the gelt so he can further his real ambition—to be a politician. When he wanted to run for Congress out of San Diego, during his hiatus, the guys he figured to back his campaign reneged on the dough. Now Ron wants to make enough the next three years, blocking other people for the Oakland Raiders, so that he can finance his own campaign if ever he has to.

The oh-ohing among all pro gridders these days is how the Rams expect to get away with their no-curtsey rule. "Any time," says vet Cleveland line-backer Jim Houston, "you get more than four guys to gather, you got to start laying down the law." Which means nix on the adult treatment.

Much has been made of vet Oakland A's slugger Tommy Davis being the buffer between Vida Blue and the public because they share an off-field pad. And Tommy's supposed to give Vida the benefit of his experience as a guy who led the National League in batting at age 23 (and again at 24). "Actually," says Tommy, "only thing I've done is give him the same lawyer I've had." So how does Vida handle himself? Tommy: "He's just a normal, crazy 22-year-old kid."

Cultural note: Inimitable Babe Herman, still an active baseball scout and on an SF visit to honor longtime Giant publicist Gary Schumacher, revealed that his son, a protégé of Rudolf Bing at the New York Met (not Mets), is leaving the opera field, along with Mr. Bing, at the end of the current season. "He'll probably open a travel business in Hawaii," says Babe. You figure it.

When Juan Nunez, a fight promoter in the Bay area, brings in Mexican boxers, there's an emotional tie. His father was a lieutenant in Pancho Villa's army and left for the States two days before Villa's assassination. . . . Hairiest team in sports by all odds is the San Diego Chargers. . . . Franklin Mieuli, eccentric owner of the NBA's Golden State Warriors (he can disappear faster than Judge Crater), has a fetish about hands. Specialists in collecting art work featuring fingers. . . .

Any NFL team looking for a stern head coach to straighten out its roster should grab Ernie Stautner of the Cowboys, who's prime material for a top job. And he qualifies tactically, too, because in the last two years Tom Landry has completely turned over his complicated, structured defense to Ernie's direction. . . .

There's a young married in Southern California who earned his spurs as a football fanatic. Before scheduling his wedding ceremony for the afternoon of Saturday, Sept. 11, he called the USC sports bureau to make sure the Trojans' opening game was scheduled for the previous night (so it wouldn't interfere). Then he checked UCLA to be certain its game was Saturday night, clearing the afternoon hours. And the clincher came when he discovered the TV game that day was Morgan State Grambling. "Now," he whined, "we can go ahead with the wedding. I was worried about attendance if there was a good TV attraction."

National Conference: Western Division
---NEW ORLEANS SAINTS

PROSPECTUS—Open with Rams and 49ers and then it gets worse. They can already start plotting out '71 college crop for top draft choice. No way this club can figure as winner. Too many changes on top, and they're running players in and out like a cattle drive. What once promised to be a good defense has been chopped up to bring in offensive personnel. And they don't have enough of them either.

Offense
PASSING—The trick will be for Archie Manning to survive. Fortunately, he's used to running. Lot of scouts thought he was better for long haul than Plunkett. It'll be a long haul. Smallish Edd Hargett will provide relief, which is the right word. Rating—B-.

RUNNING—Lot of brawn, no fawns. Out of desperation, probably have to use Tony Baker, Hoyle Granger, both damaged full-back types, as set backs. Dickie Lyons, who couldn't make it on defense, is getting shot at halfback type; so's Bill Dusenberry. Coach J. D. Roberts is searching valiantly for speed threat. Rating—C-.

RECEIVING—No change from last year in sight. Danny Abramowicz will catch any ball thrown within arm's length. He and Al Dodd aren't awesome physically, and Danny's speed is only so-so but they're pros. So's the tight end, Dave Parks. Rating—B.

LINE—Almost remade. Del Williams shifted from guard to center. That leaves Jake Kupp plus always promising and always hurt John Shinnors to handle guards. Tackles are in the new-old hands of Don Morrison, third-round rookie, and ex-Oiler Glenn Ray Hines. Roberts actually sees bright things for this contingent, if they can hang together (don't take that literally). Rating—C.

SECONDARY—Moved Doug Wyatt from corner to safety, to team with Hugo Hollas. Delles Howell. Gene Howard handle corners for moment. But drafted heavily in this area, nabbing exotic names like Bivian Lee, D'Artagnan Martin, who sound good if nothing else. It'll be fluid back there for awhile. Rating—B-.

KICKING—The best, and they'll get plenty of chances to prove it—Tom Dempsey kicking off (when he's not amazing people with long-distance field goals) and Julian Fagan punting in conference-leading style. Rating—A-.

Prediction:

The future of this club is definitely not now. Last in the West.

FRANK BROYLES
Head Football Coach

No one in the state of Arkansas knew about it. And Frank Broyles probably was not aware of it either.

But Arkansas Athletic Director John Barnhill, who currently holds the title with emeritus status, had his "employment eye" on Broyles long before he lured him away from Missouri in 1957.

Barnhill had followed his progress on the assistant coaching level at Baylor, Florida and Georgia Tech and was convinced Broyles had great talent and potential.

"I wanted to hire Frank while he was an assistant, but other people on the committee insisted we should get someone with head coaching experience," said Barnhill. "Missouri hired him and I went after Frank immediately following his first year."

It did not take Broyles long to prove Barnhill's observations were concrete and accurate.

Although his initial Razorback team lost its first six games, it reaped victories in the final four contests, and laid the foundation for a successful future.

Arkansas established a 9-2 record the following season, tied for the Southwest Conference Championship and defeated Georgia Tech, 14-7, in the Gator Bowl.

Broyles guided the Razorbacks to the out-right league championship in 1960 with an 8-3 record and a bid to the Cotton Bowl. The Razorbacks made it three trophies in a row a year later, an accomplishment which had not been achieved since Texas A&M's trio in 1939, 1940 and 1941, with another 8-3 record and a Sugar Bowl bid. Arkansas finished second in conference standings with a 9-1 record in 1962 and accepted another invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

During these four years, Razorback football became the pride of the entire state. Today, Arkansas fans are recognized among the most ardent and dedicated in the country.

Broyles' success was interrupted briefly in 1963, a sophomore-laden team finished 5-5. However, these athletes established football history in the SWC the next two years.

Arkansas won the national championship the next season with an 11-0 record and a Cotton Bowl victory over Nebraska; and extended its winning streak in 1965 to 22 consecutive games and another league crown before LSU defeated the Razorbacks in the Cotton Bowl. The Hogs claimed an 8-2 record and second place in conference standings the following season.

Youth dominated the 1967 team, but the Porkers established a 9-1 record, tied for the SWC championship and defeated Georgia, 16-2, in the Sugar Bowl a year later.

Arkansas repeated its 9-1 record in 1969 and received another invitation to the Sugar Bowl. The Razorbacks and Texas, ranked first and second in the wire service polls, played for the national championship in Fayetteville and the Longhorns came from behind for a 15-14 victory.

It was voted the "Game of the Century" by the Football Writers Association of America and President Richard M. Nixon was in attendance.

Arkansas repeated its Top 10 national ranking with a 9-2 record last year.

RAZORBACK STADIUM

The University of Arkansas constructed its first football stadium in 1901 on land now occupied by the new University Library and the Fine Arts Center. The structure, with seats for 300 spectators and a fence around the outside, remained as the site for Razorback contest in Fayetteville until 1938.

Razorback Stadium, built as a WPA project, was dedicated on October 8, 1938 by program administrator Harry Hopkins. Arkansas lost to Baylor 9-6 before a record crowd of 10,000. Original seating capacity for the first stadium was 13,500.

Following the arrival of John Barnhill, expansion projects began in 1947-48. An additional 2,500 seats were added to the north end of each side. A new press box was constructed and 5,200 more seats were built on the west side in 1950. A 5,200 seat east complement was completed in 1957.

Additional construction projects came in 1965 and 1969-70, increasing the seating capacity to 43,500. Astro-Turf also was added in the last renovation program.

Arkansas has won 92 games, lost 77 and tied two in Razorback Stadium. One of the most memorable wins was a 27-24 victory over Texas in 1965 and the unforgettable loss came in 1969 with Texas coming from behind for a 15-14 triumph. A record crowd of 44,598, including the President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, were in attendance.

INEXPERIENCE MAJOR CONCERN

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles would have liked 20 more spring practice days. But the NCAA said no one is limited to the same number. So Broyles will have to wait until August to give the Razorbacks the extra work he wanted them to have in May.

His major concerns are the overall team defense and individual inexperience on offense.

Arkansas defense, which has ranked first in SWC statistics six of the past ten years and played a major role in the Razorbacks' rise to national prominence under Broyles' leadership, lost seven starters from last year's 9-2-0 team and proved inconsistent during the spring.

Reasons for the good and bad days were obvious — there were just too many athletes in unfamiliar positions and injuries kept the staff busy changing the depth charts.

For instance, of the four returning starters from a year ago, linebacker Ronnie Jones and end David Reavis were moved to new positions, tackle and end, and Corky Cordell and Jack Morris were absent from the secondary with injuries.

Defensively, both ends are inexperienced with Jones (200, 6-3) at the right flank and sophomore Steve Cox (205, 6-3) on the left. Jim Blackburn (195, 6-4), Nick Aylos (210, 6-4) and Calvin Griffith (200, 6-2) are fine potential. Reavis (240, 6-4) is an experienced pass rusher at right tackle. Archie Bennett (245, 6-1) provides quickness on the left side. They are backed by Don Wunderly (220, 6-4) and Bobby Bradsher (215, 6-2).

John Turner (255, 6-3) and Roger Harmish (220, 6-2) could offer valuable experience at each tackle if they recover from injuries, but both missed spring drills and their status for the fall is undetermined.

Behind the line, sophomore Danny Rhodes (210, 6-2) received much coaching praise in the spring. Many observers of Razorback football must be having the potential to be one of the best in Arkansas history. Bill Kennedy (205, 6-2), who lettered last year, and Ed Rownd (195, 6-2) are quality depth.

Jim Benton (207, 6-1) has letterman's experience at middle linebacker and John Wheat (205, 6-2) could be strong challenging competition in the fall.

Scott Bunnion (200, 6-0), who lettered at fullback last year, was moved to left halfback following the final spring game. He must battle letterman Les Williams (190, 5-11) and junior college transfer Doug Scheel (190, 6-0) for the top listing at the position.

Cordell (180, 6-1) and Morris (175, 6-1) were starters in the secondary that intercepted 32 passes last year. Cordell had four steals and Morris claimed two.

Backyard Cordell at wide-side safety will be Mike Davis (177, 6-1) and Danny Prince (175, 6-0), both sophomores who received valuable exposure in the spring.

Morris (175, 6-1), who is a strong contender for All-SWC honors this year, will be relieved by sophomore Clark Ivin (180, 6-1) at right cornerback.

Junior letterman Louis Campbell has the edge at strong safety, but Steve Birdwell (205, 6-3) and Jim Taylor (182, 6-2) could see considerable action.

David Hogue (183, 6-1), who led the SWC in pass interceptions last year with six, is at left cornerback. He is backed by Jim Ivin (170, 5-11).

Broyles is optimistic about the potential of the offense. And that is understandable with quarterback Joe Ferguson directing it.

Ferguson (175, 6-2), could become one of the top quarterbacks in the country.

He lettered last year in a reserve role (behind three-year starter Bill Montgomery), completing 48 of 86 passes for 744 yards and four touchdowns. Ferguson has an exceptionally quick throwing release and possesses an excellent touch for the long and short pass.

Walter Nelson (180, 6-2) compliments Ferguson's passing with his option ability. He is an excellent quarterback in his own right and Broyles will not hesitate to send him into action.

Russ Garber (215, 6-0) gained 409 yards in 81 carries (a 5.2 average) at fullback last year, but missed most of the spring work with a foot injury. Sophomore Skipper DeBorde (212, 6-0) is a power runner who could make a strong challenge for the No. 1 assignment.

Junior Jon Richardson (180, 5-11) holds the edge at tailback over letterman Mike Saint (200, 6-0), and sophomore Dicky Morton (175, 5-11).

Richardson was Arkansas' second leading rusher last year averaging 4.3 yards per carry with 441 in 104 attempts. He's also a scoring threat returning kicks.

Saint gained 346 yards in 91 carries (3.8) and Morton led the freshmen in rushing with 682 yards in 69 attempts and a 9.9 average.

Sever quality receivers will be ready for action. Jim Hodge (176, 5-11), who caught 16 passes for 397 yards as a starter last year, Keith French (170, 6-2) and Mark Hollingsworth (190, 6-1) will share playing time at flanker.

Mike Repond (175, 6-0), who made the switch from high school quarterback as did graduated All-America Chuck Dieus, and Jack Fittinger (175, 6-3) provide the

Arkansas Razorbacks

Arkansas assistant trainer Phil Linberger hasn't always been the person administering to injured athletes.

At one time, he was on the other side of the taping bench as a football player.

Linberger, whose older brothers, John and Jerry, were both Arkansas athletes, played freshman football for the Razorbacks after competing for championship teams at Texarkana's Texas High. He switched to the training room the following year and spent the next four seasons under Jim Bone and the late Bill Farrell.

Following his graduation in 1969, Bone selected him to be his assistant. Linberger assists with the administration for football training duties and has all responsibilities for the basketball program.

Linberger is lay minister at the Huntsville Baptist Church and hopes to enter the seminary. He is married to the former Brenda Young and they have one child.

Razorbacks with two good split end candidates. Repond caught nine passes for 164 yards last year.

Two-year letterman Bobby Nichols, who had 11 receptions for 172 yards in 1970, and Bill Lively (210, 6-2) are solid tight end candidates with good blocking and receiving ability.

At tackle, Broyles insists the Razorbacks may have one of the finest combinations in the country. Mike Nelson (238, 6-4) earned All-SWC honors last year and two-year letterman Tom Mabry (248, 6-6) has continued to improve each season. Sophomores Butch Patrick (220, 6-3) and John Boozman (218, 6-3) offer depth.

Tom Reed (230, 6-3) was a starter last year and Glen Lowe (245, 6-4) was the No. 2 man behind graduated All-SWC performer Ronnie Hammers. Letterman Mike Griffin and sophomore Rodger Brand are reserves with ability.

Youth dominates the center position with sophomores Ron Revard (225, 6-2) and Stuart Freeland (235, 6-3) competing for the starting assignment. Letterman Bill Carter (200, 6-1) could be used for full-time service and will have long snap responsibilities.

One of the key performers in the offense will be specialist Bill McClard. He earned All-America honors last year leading the nation in kick scoring with 80 points, 50 of 51 extra points and 10 of 15 field goals.

He established an NCAA distance record against SMU with a 66-yard three-pointer. McClard must score 42 points this season to surpass Jerry DePoyster's (Wyo., 1965-67) 182 career standard.

Letterman Ken Curry (170, 6-0) and sophomore Drew Toole (205, 5-11) will handle the punting chores.

Numismatic Convention Highlights

The recent 80th convention of the American Numismatic Association in Washington was a smashing success. More important to me than the wheeling-and-dealing business sessions, were the people and events that will affect the coin industry in the coming year.

In my opinion, the Treasury Department stole the show with its working exhibits from the Bureau of the Mint and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. This is not to put down the coin exhibits, but expert demonstrations in both federal booths played constantly to oversize crowds.

Mrs. Mary Brooks, the lovely and charming director of the Mint, was there with members of her staff, as was James A. Conlon, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Both were eager to talk to anyone about anything, especially money.

Prime subject of Mrs. Brooks, of course, was her pet project, the Eisenhower dollar. She is quite proud of her role in this coin's issuance.

Conlon was particularly pleased with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing's progress in developing a Braille coded paper currency for the one-million-plus blind citizens who have never experienced the use of paper currency.

His first words to me when we met were, "Mort, I liked your article on Braille money. We are working on it and as soon as we have something, you'll be the first to know."

Then there was Tom Haney, sports editor and coin columnist for the New York Times, who was elected to the board of governors of the Numismatic Literary Guild.

Tom, we learned, has been on the Times staff since 1929, and while his coin column is a relatively new assignment, a pervading interest has been the history of the United States as depicted by our coins and paper currency.

Tom and I teamed up on several interviews, one of which was with former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, now chairman of board of Paramount International Coin Corp., and its president, Max Humbert.

In an exclusive meeting with G. W. Hunter, master of the Royal Canadian Mint, and his executive assistant, K. O. Grant, Haney and I learned what new thing Canada has in store in the way of coins and numismatic material. Since Canada's coinage has always been an exciting collector item in the United States, it is hard to believe anything more beautiful than the 1970 Canadian prooflike dollar possible.

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

National Conference: Central Division ---CHICAGO BEARS

PROSPECTUS—Studious Jim Dooley got a reprieve, another year to put growl back in Bears. And time's not on his side. The Monsters of Midway are meek and indecisive offensively and unjelled defensively. Even one of the superstars, Gale Sayers, has become an "iffy" product. The club progressed last year after a disastrous '69, but they're in a tough division to get their hopes up too high.

Offense

PASSING—More than any other department, key to Bear prospects. Been waiting for Bobby Douglass and his southpaw spirals to take charge, but keep going back to Jack Concannon, ex-scrumbler whose plateaus of performance run from Mt. Everest to Death Valley. Rating—C+.

RUNNING—Well, you start with Gale Sayers. Jelluva start. And then where do you go? Even old rid of Ronnie Bull, ad faithful for several years. Craig Baynham, who couldn't cut it with Cowboys, is current candidate to keep Gale company. But they drafted a couple of Missouri monsters who're the backfield of the future, Joe Moore and Jim Harrison. Rating—A-.

RECEIVING—If front office can keep Dick Gordon happy, they've got something. Proved it last year by becoming most prolific pro receiver. Towering George Farmer complements him as wide threat, with Bob Wallace and Jim Hester at tight end. Jim Seymour needs to live up to Notre Dame form. Rating—B+.

LINE—It's young, except for Howard Mudd and Jim Cadle at guards. Tackle Bob Newton is rookie possible, but dependence will be on the same people who played last year—center Bob Hyland, tackles Randy Jackson, Wayne Mass, Jeff Curcun, guard Glen Holloway. Rating—B.

Prediction: Switch to Soldier Field as locale doesn't change field picture. Fourth in Central Division.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

Your Extension Cord

Last time, we were talking about the way Lee Trevino leads his putting stroke with the back of his left hand. The same could be said of his full shots.

Like all good players, Lee gets wonderful extension through the ball. That is, his left arm remains firm well into his follow-through, and does not break down the way the average weekend player's frequently does.

Many inexperienced players swing at the ball instead of through it. That causes poor extension, and both the power and accuracy of your shots will suffer.

You never want your left arm to be stiff or even straightened, but it should be in control of the swing.

To promote good extension, pick out a spot a foot or so in front of the ball on the line you want the shot to follow. A clover maybe.

Then be sure the clubhead travels out over that spot after you make contact.

Crossett Eagles Have Problems

Crossett's Eagles have a problem this year—lack of depth, size, and experience. With only seven returning lettermen this year from a team that finished only 4-6, Coach John Pierce has a rebuilding problem, and he is depending on his juniors to carry most of the load. Only two starters return on the graduation riddled offense—Mike Hutchins and guard Phil Kelly. Hutchins, a junior, weighing 145 pounds in his 5'8" frame, took over last year at signal calling and is expected to have a promising season, while Kelly returns for his senior year at 140 pounds. Hutchins will have as his backfield cohorts, Steve Burgess at tailback, Marvin Harris at fullback, and Gary Johnson at slotback. Burgess and Harris are both seniors, while Johnson is only a junior. Crossett's offensive line will be fairly small, with only the two tackles, Mike Andrews and Bob Edmondson, weighing over 160 pounds. Andrews, a senior, weighs 185 and stands 5'11" while Edmondson is the largest at 6'2", 190 pounds. Two juniors, Hampton Pierce and Donny Akins, will hold down both ends, while Tony Hendrix and Buddy Russell will battle it out for the center spot. Junior Troy Haygood will start at the other guard position. Defensively, the Eagles will be led by linebacker Billy Houston, a tough 6'0", 155 pound senior, who is expected to have a fine season with possible post season honors ahead. Either Burgess or Roger Burchfield will hold down the other linebacking position. Heaviest positions are the tackles, where Larry Lee and Dickie Harris will start. Lee is a junior, standing 6'0" and weighing 190 pounds, while Harris is a 6'1", 195 pound senior. Haygood, a 150 pounder, will be the starting noseman. Inexperience tells the story on the defensive secondary, with only one senior and three juniors slated to hold down the starting spots. John Brooks, a 6'7", 140 pound senior, and smallest of the four, will lead the secondary, with Phil Wright, Johnson, and Hutchins expected to nail down the other three positions. Pierce will be faced this year with a small and inexperienced team with four or five starters going both ways, including the quarterback and slotback. Off-and, this won't be anywhere near Crossett's year, but the Eagles might have a .500 season, providing there are no injuries. ept. 3, Magnolia H ept. 10, Malvern T

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, FIRST WHITEWASH

The first shutout game in major league history was on April 25, 1876, when Chicago of the American League blanked Louisville, 4-0.

STRONG ARM

The record for the longest throw in baseball history is held by Glen Gorbous, who heaved a ball 445 feet, 10 inches after a six-step running start at an exhibition when he was with Omaha of the American Association in 1957.

GENERATION GAP?

Sid Gillman, coach of the San Diego Chargers, had Hall of Fame end Andy Robustelli on his roster when he coached the Rams in 1955. This season he opened training with Andy's son, Rick, on his roster.

GONE TO HIS HEAD?

Willie Lanier of the Kansas City Chiefs has such a big head that when he was in college none of his team's helmets at Morgan State would fit. He had to borrow a size 7 1/2 helmet from the Baltimore Colts.

WATCH IT, COACH

Washington Redskins coach George Allen wasn't upset when defensive back Spence Duncan ran into him and fractured one of the coach's ribs during a practice session. Allen remembered 1966, when he incurred a broken hand that became a good luck charm as the Los Angeles Rams whom he coached then, ran 11-3 straight wins.

GOLDEN ARM TALKS

Terry Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers talks about how he feels now that he has his rookie season under his belt. "It's all different now. I feel like I've been a long time in the wilderness, confused. Last season was a big nightmare."

ORIGIN OF COLORS

Arkansas' official university colors were selected Cardinal and White in 1895. The Ozark, the official Arkansas University magazine, reported this story in its first issue. "After a short but fierce contest between the partisans of heliotrope (a variable color averaging a moderate purple) and cardinal, the latter triumphed, and it now holds a conspicuous place on the apparel of the students and professors." "Since we have a magazine, a college color and a college yell, we feel that we are in some measure catching up with the times." Just when the "White" was added to make the modern cardinal and white is not known.

HERBERT BURNS

RAZORBACK MASCOT

Arkansas' athletic teams have not always been called the Razorbacks. During the early years of its athletic history, the Cardinal was the university mascot. A lot of things changed in 1909, however, when Hugo Bezdek, the father of the modern Arkansas teams, surrendered only 12 points while taking his footballers to an undefeated season. After guiding his team to a 16-0 victory over Louisiana State, October 30, 1909, at Memphis, Bezdek called his players, "A wild team of Razorback hogs." Alluding to the Razorback characterized by a ridged back, long legged and tenacious wild-fighting ability, Bezdek never forgot his idea, and often times called his team, "a fighting band of Razorbacks." This new nickname became increasingly popular and the student body voted to change the official University mascot from Cardinals to Razorbacks in 1910.

WAR MEMORIAL STADIUM

When the Razorbacks play in Little Rock, War Memorial Stadium, which holds 53,000 fans, is home. The stadium was dedicated on September 18, 1948 and a crowd of 24,950 (a record football attendance in Arkansas at that time) watched Arkansas defeat Abilene Christian College, 40-6. Congressional Medal of Honor Winner Maurice (Footsie) Britt, a three-year Arkansas letter winner, was the dedication speaker. The original stadium's 31,000 seating capacity has been expanded three different times to the current 53,000 seats. Arkansas has won 49, lost 21, and there have been no ties. A complete lighting system and Astro-Turf were added in 1969 and many observers insist it is one of the best lighted stadiums in the country. Arkansas has won 28, lost 8 and tied none in Razorback Stadium under Coach Frank Broyles and claims a 32-8-0 record in War Memorial Stadium during his tenure.

Smackover Has Eleven Starters Back

Returning 11 starters from last year's team, the Smackover Buckaroos are hopeful of a winning season.

Head coach Joe Branch welcomes back five starting seniors and six starting juniors with a fairly good amount of depth.

Running the Bucks pro set offense will be Bob Garner, 180 pound senior quarterback, who has a lot of experience. Garner's main receiver will be all-district end Chuck Moore, a 1'11", 160 pound senior.

Buckaroo fullback Rusty Scott should provide much of the running game with Clark Langley, 170 pound senior expected to see plenty of action also.

Providing a fairly good sized line will be tackles Keith Cotton and Jay Morris and guard Bobby Smith. Morris and Smith each weigh 195 pounds while Cotton is the smallest of the three at 185.

Extra help should come from Jim Farley and sophomore Danny Farley. Jim Farley is a 155 pound senior center while the latter is a 180 pound guard.

All-district defensive end Dennis Ray, a 205 pound senior that stands 6'2", will return as the Bucks defensive stalwart. Ray is fairly quick and fast and will probably receive post season honors.

Two more seniors who may land starting roles are Mike Evans and David Calloway, both ends. Evans is the larger of the two at a 165 pounds while standing 5'11". Also, sophomore quarterback Tommy Norrell is expected to log some playing time.

While there may be a good deal of line changing the secondary will probably consist of two juniors and a senior—Aldwin Gill, Jim Taylor and Alford Lee. All three weigh between 145 and 150 pounds and stand about 5'8".

Smackovers' main problem will be putting together an effective defensive unit to run the monster type setup, but should Branch and his assistants find the right combinations, the Bucks could be title contenders in a tough league.

ARMY HAS 10 GAMES
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Army's football team will play 10 games next fall, five of them at home in Michie Stadium.
The Cadets open at home with Stanford, the Pacific 8 champion sans Heisman winner Jim Plunkett, on Sept. 18. The next week they visit Atlanta to face Georgia Tech.

Missouri, Virginia, Rutgers and Pitt also will be met at home. Other road games are at Penn State, Air Force in Colorado, Miami at Coral Gables, Fla., and Navy at Philadelphia on Nov. 27.

Home game seats are $6. Navy game tickets are $8.50.

ALL-AMERICA McCLARD NCAA KICK CHAMPION

Bill McClard, 205, 5-11, Norman, Oklahoma, all-state tackle and kicker.
That was the information listed in Arkansas's recruiting files in 1968. On the surface, it appeared the Razorbacks had a chance to land a great do-it-all performer.

But McClard insists his lineman's recognition was misleading. In fact he scoffs at it.

"I weighed 180 pounds," McClard said. "Everybody blocked me. They picked me as an all-state tackle because of my kicking. I'm probably the worst tackle Coach Broyles ever recruited."

But Broyles didn't recruit him as a tackle. McClard kicked field goals of 53 and 56 yards in high school and constantly kicked off into the end zone.

Recruiters came from everywhere trying to enlist his services. When the Big Eight Conference signing date rolled around, McClard signed with his hometown school, Oklahoma.

But he changed his mind. "Everyone assumed I would go to OU," McClard said. "But after they signed me, they signed a junior college kicker. They weren't showing much confidence in me by signing that other kicker."

And the door was open for Arkansas and Broyles. But that wasn't the only plus factor for the Razorbacks, track also played a role. McClard was winning meets everywhere in the shot put.

"Coach Broyles was the only coach recruiting me who brought his track coach along," McClard said. "Coach (Tom) Hardin took an interest in me immediately and said I could throw the shot when I wasn't playing football. That's when I decided to go to Arkansas."

As a Razorback freshman, McClard kicked a 43-yard field goal. And in his sophomore season, he booted 40 of 44 extra points and seven of nine field goals, including a 43-yarder against Mississippi.

But in the Sugar Bowl against Mississippi, McClard had his worst day, missing a couple of field goals at point-blank range.

"That just goes to show you what will happen when someone gets to reading his own press clippings," McClard said. "I had the big head and that brought me down to earth."

So McClard avoided writers for most of last fall. Even when he kicked a record 53-yarder against Wichita State, he wouldn't talk to reporters.

"Wait until after the season," he would tell them. But McClard couldn't put off anyone after the homecoming game against SMU. He kicked three field goals (tying a school record held by George Cole and Bob White) and placed his name in the NCAA record book.

On his third kick, shortly before halftime, McClard booted a record 60-yard three-pointer. It hit the crossbar and bounced into the tuba section of the Arkansas band which was waiting behind the end zone to come onto the field.

McClard almost didn't get a chance to kick that one.

"Coach Broyles wanted to punt," McClard said. "But Coach (Mervin) Johnson and I talked — No, pleaded — until he let me try it."

McClard couldn't avoid the writers then. Everyone wanted an interview, and McClard obliged. And this time, he didn't get the big head.

He continued to kick effectively, booting a key 32-yard field goal against Texas Tech in a 24-10 victory that clinched second place in the Southwest Conference.

McClard finished 1970 with 50 of 51 extra points and 10 of 15 field goals. His PAT miss came on the last score against Baylor, but the score, 41-7.

He has a string of 28 straight extra points made entering his senior season.

McClard led the nation in kick-scoring last year with 80 points and earned All-America recognition.

His two-year total yields 141 points with 90 of 95 extra points and 17 of 24 field goals.

McClard developed an interest in kicking at an early age watching football on television. He liked Lou Groza and tried to imitate him in the back yard.

There were no goalposts, so McClard aimed between a couple of telephone poles. When he entered high school, Bill moved to Owen Stadium on the Oklahoma campus where Norman High played its home games.

McClard's 56-yard field goal against Ardmore is still the Owen Stadium record. He received the Sports Illustrated Award of Merit following that game. He also kicked a 50-yarder that same night.

"Imagine that," McClard said. "After all the great teams that have played in that stadium, a high schooler holds the record."

McClard never received any kicking instruction in high school. He worked at keeping his leg straight, his ankle locked and his stride—all things he picked up from watching Groza.

At Arkansas, Mervin Johnson, who oversees the kickers, helped him lower his trajectory after his sophomore season. This gives him more accuracy on a windy day.

McClard hasn't missed his old tackle position. "I don't see any reason to get in there and get banged up," he said.

His track progress also has failed to match his improved kicking, he stops throwing with the beginning of spring practice.

However, McClard doesn't mind. "Think what would happen," McClard said, "if I dropped a shot on my toe."

CHARLES (AB) BIDWELL Business Manager

When it comes to versatility, it is hard to top Charles (AB) Bidwell, the Business Manager of Athletics at Arkansas.

Bidwell has served the University in varied roles since joining the staff in 1955.

For 13 years, Bidwell was track coach, producing four Southwest Conference team championships, 12 SWC individual track champions and numerous relay victories. He also worked with the B-team in football and taught math and physical education. He stepped down as track coach following his last cross country title in 1967.

In an effort to streamline the overall business operations of the athletic department, Bidwell was named purchasing agent in 1968.

He oversees expenditures, distribution of aid to scholarship athletics, construction activities, general concessions and program sales. He also continues his teaching responsibilities.

A former track Hall of Famer at Pittsburg, Kansas, State (now Kansas State College), he coached on the high school level for a decade following his graduation.

He was named director of physical education and head track coach at Wichita State in 1945 and accepted coaching responsibilities at Arkansas in 1955.

Bidwell and his wife, the former Faye Riggs, have one daughter, Mrs. Michael (Marsha) Kaylor, and one son, Mike.

'Vinegar Bend' Mizell Thrives in Politics

Often, Vinegar Bend couldn't find that strike zone. But he did on enough occasions to make the National League All-Star team and pitch (for the Pirates in 1960) in the World Series.

The rangy, still-crew-cut Mizell retains enough of his stuff so that his Capitol Hill colleagues won't allow him to pitch in the annual Democrats vs. Republicans baseball game.

They well remember 1969, just after Mizell had won his first term in Congress, when the North Carolina Republican struck out seven Democrats—all who faced him—in the Congressional game.

Mizell was, of course, born in Vinegar Bend, Ala., hence the nickname. He went to high school in Mississippi, had a rewarding baseball career, then pushed Pepsi-Cola in North Carolina after a bad arm forced his retirement.

tive, not negative, factor.

"We need more people in Congress who are just ordinary citizens, not lawyers, ex-state legislators or anything like that," he said. "Isn't that what a democracy is supposed to be about? Government by the people, not an elite? Sure, I burned the midnight oil when I first came here, trying to catch up on all I didn't know about parliamentary procedure and that kind of thing. But I've learned a lot now."

Mizell doesn't discuss political affairs glibly. Gossip isn't his forte. Neither is gamesmanship nor speculation. Regardless, he still could be—and admittedly it's a lengthy shot—North Carolina's next governor.

Newcombe Top Raquetteer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — John Newcombe, winner of the Wimbledon championship, leads Rod Laver, his fellow Australian, in the race for the Martini & Rossi Gold Racquet that is awarded annually to the outstanding player of the year by an international panel of lawn tennis writers, including Murray Olderman of Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Every member of the panel ranked Newcombe as the top player for 1971 thus far on the records through the Wimbledon championships. The final vote will be taken following the United States Open championship, tournaments on the West Coast and the Davis Cup challenge round.

Not only the Gold Racquet but also a cash award of $7,500 will go to the player who gets the highest combined rating from the panel. The $7,500 prize has been added to the award for the first time this year by Martini & Rossi and will be given annually. The Tiffany-designed Gold Racquet is held by the player for a year.

Laver, who was awarded the Gold Racquet for 1968 and 1969, when he scored a grand slam in winning the Wimbledon, United States, French and Australian championships (as he did also as an amateur in 1962), was ranked second by three panelists, third by three and fourth by two. He has a total of 65 points, to 80 for Newcombe. He narrowly finished in second place ahead of Ken Rosewall of Australia and Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif.

Rosewall was the surprising winner of the Gold Racquet in 1970 at the age of 35, when he won the United States Open and was runner-up to Newcombe at Wimbledon.

Smith, who ranks second in the United States to Cliff Richey, was runner-up to Newcombe this year.

Laver made a sensational start in 1971 by winning $160,000 in prize money the first two months in the $210,000 classic. He seemed well on his way to regaining the world leadership but met with a succession of setbacks, including his defeat at Wimbledon by Tom Gorman of Seattle, sixth in the U.S. rankings.

Rosewall and Smith tied for third place in the panel's rankings. Arthur Ashe is fifth. Following him are Richey, Ilie Nastase of Romania, Gorman, Cliff Drysdale of South Africa and Marty Riessen, Tom Okker of the Netherlands, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia and Roy Emerson of Australia also received votes.

The rankings with point scores:

1. John Newcombe, Australia	80 points
2. Rod Laver, Australia	85 points
3. Ken Rosewall, Australia	62 points
4. Stan Smith, United States	62 points
5. Arthur Ashe, United States	39 points
6. Cliff Richey, United States	33 points
7. Ilie Nastase, Romania	26 points
8. Tom Gorman, United States	18 points
9. Cliff Drysdale, South Africa	17 points
10. Marty Riessen, United States	13 points

Tom Okker, the Netherlands, 11 points; Jan Kodes, Czechoslovakia, nine points; Roy Emerson, Australia, five points.

ARKANSAS HISTORY, FUTRALL TO BROYLES

From 1894, when the coach was a professor of Latin, to today, Arkansas has developed a proud football heritage. In 77 seasons, the Razorbacks have won 378, lost 273, and tied 31.

John C. Futrall, later a UofA president, initiated the first squad. He coached from 1894 to 1899, and the teams were known as Cardinals. The first unit consisted of 14 players who bought their own uniforms.

After winning two games, Futrall took his team by train to Austin, Tex., for a Thanksgiving Day game against Texas. The Longhorns won the game, 54-0, but one of the premier athletic rivalries began.

The turn of the century brought Arkansas its first paid coach, Charles Thomas of Michigan, and a fenced-in playing field with bleachers for 300 spectators. Arkansas football received its biggest boost when tough, disciplined Hugo Bezdek arrived from Chicago in 1908. After one year of preparation, Bezdek's teams compiled a 21-3 record from 1909-11. The 1909 unit went undefeated in seven games, outscored its opponents, 188-12, and earned the "Championship of the South." The nickname Razorbacks was born.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, the legendary coach at Chicago, heard about the Razorbacks and visited the UA campus in the spring of 1910. Bezdek staged special practice sessions for Stagg in what is believed to be the first spring football practice in history.

The 1910 team gave up only seven points, but five of those came in a 5-0 loss to Kansas State. A 7-1 record earned "Championship of the Southwest" honors. In 1911, Bezdek's final Arkansas team compiled a 7-2 record, that included a 100-0 victory over Southwest Missouri when a touchdown counted only five points.

Bezdek, who later was inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame, developed the Flying Wedge offense.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset

Conference in 1914 and celebrated with a 14-0 victory over Oklahoma A&M.

The Razorbacks played under five different head coaches before Francis Schmidt and his entire staff were hired away from Tulsa in 1922.

Schmidt was recognized as the first athletic director in Arkansas history. He also introduced basketball in 1924 and won a SWC title a year later.

Schmidt never had a losing season in his seven years. His 1927 team came within one game of a 40-0 loss to Texas A&M of finishing undefeated.

Schmidt, who was also selected to the National Football Hall of Fame, left after the 1928 season for TCU. He was replaced by Fred Thomson, a Nebraska product who was Schmidt's top assistant.

Thomson coached at Arkansas for 13 years. In his first year (1929), a pass-catching end, Wear Schoenover, became the school's first All-American.

Only the use of an ineligible substitute in several games in 1933 cost Arkansas the conference title. The Razorbacks beat Texas for the first time, 20-0, at Austin.

Arkansas faced Centenary in the Dixie Classic, the forerunner of the Cotton Bowl, and the teams tied, 7-7.

Two years later, Arkansas won the championship. The 1936 team claimed a 7-3 record following a 6-0 victory over Texas on December 5 at Little Rock.

The years leading up to World War II found Arkansas as the passingest team in the nation with quarterback Jack Robbins and receiver Jim Benton.

During the war years, a succession of coaches brought an equal number of changes in the line-up as military calls kept things in disruption. Arkansas maintained a team during the war but finished 500 only once.

Arkansas hired John Barnhill, Tennessee's war-time coach, prior to the 1946 season. Barnhill's first team shared the SWC title with Rice and tied LSU, 0-0, in icy weather at the Cotton Bowl.

The 1946-48 teams featured hard-running halfback Clyde Scott. He won All-America honors and his jersey (No. 12) is the only number permanently retired at Arkansas.

Barnhill compiled a 22-17-3 record, but illness forced him out of active coaching in 1949. He remained with the athletic department as athletic director until his retirement in 1970. He currently holds the title of director of athletics emeritus.

Otis Douglas took over for three years. He was replaced by another Tennessee single wing advocate, Bowden Wyatt, following the 1953 season.

Wyatt rebuilt the Razorbacks in two years as Arkansas swept to a surprise 8-2 season in 1954, captured an SWC title and Cotton Bowl berth against Georgia Tech.

Wyatt went to Tennessee after the Cotton Bowl loss (14-6) to Georgia Tech. He was replaced by Jack Mitchell, who stayed three years before moving to Kansas. His record was 17-12-1.

Arkansas replaced Mitchell with Frank Broyles, a former Georgia Tech star who had coached one year at Missouri.

Broyles had an unimpressive debut. The 1958 team lost its first six games. But they won their next four, including a 13-7 homecoming upset of SMU that cost the Mustangs the loop crown.

A thrilling 3-0 victory over favorite TCU gave the Hogs a share of the 1959 title and a Gator Bowl bid. Arkansas gave Georgia Tech coach Bobby Dodd his first bowl loss in a 14-7 victory.

Broyles' teams have won six SWC titles, and made eight bowl appearances.

His 1964 team shutout its last five opponents, defeated defending National Champion Texas, 14-13, toppled Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl and won the National Championship.

Following that 11-0 season, the Porkers extended the winning streak to 22 games before falling to LSU in the 1966 Cotton Bowl. Included in that streak was a 27-24 thriller over Texas on National television.

Arkansas shared the championship with Texas in 1968 and a 16-2 upset of undefeated Southeastern Conference champion Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Centennial celebration took place in 1969, and Texas and Arkansas were asked to re-schedule its game to climax the year's activities on national television.

On December 5, both teams had 9-0 records and were ranked 1-2 in the country. It was dubbed, "The Game of the Century." Before 44,000 people, including President Richard Nixon, Arkansas turned Texas mistakes into a 14-0 lead, but the Longhorns came back to win, 15-14.

Broyles, now in his 14th season, has guided Arkansas longer than any other coach. He has produced 16 All-Americans, compiled a 104-34-1 record, and established himself one of the top coaches in the nation.

STINGY OHIO

Teams from Ohio hold three of the top five places among the stingiest college football teams in the country over the last five years. Wittenberg leads with a 7.8 points-per-game allowance, while Muskingum is fourth at 8.73. Wilkes of Pennsylvania is second, at 8.70, also Central of Iowa is third with 8.70.

AFL SURVIVORS

Only nine players who played in the original American Football League are still active today. The list includes Ron Mix, George Blanda and Jim Otto of Oakland, Larry Grantham and Don Maynard of the New York Jets, Johnny Robinson of Kansas City, Gino Capotelli and Jim Hunt of New England and Ernie Wright of Cincinnati.

STILL HAMMERIN'

When Hank Aaron of Atlanta hit his 30th homer of the season, he tied Babe Ruth's major league record for reaching that figure for the most times in a career, 13.

PLANNING AHEAD

The University of Virginia has made an informal agreement to play the University of Texas in football in 1977. The two teams already have a contract for a game in 1983 - Sept. 24 at 7:30 p.m.

COACH HAROLD ALEXANDER

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

FINAL PREDICTIONS

PROSPECTUS—Symptoms of social tumult beginning to chip at the monolith of professional football, mostly in form of player contract unrest. But from beacon light at 410 Park, NYC, emanates glow of prosperity and eminent self-satisfaction that it, THE NFL, has best product in sports. The great Pooh Bah, Pete Rozelle, steers a strictly structured vessel that emphasizes the field product while quietly raking in all the financial benefits that derive therefrom. It's a model operation for the business of games and play. On the esthetic end, football's in phase of virtual balance between offense, defense, creating an interesting, competitive product which, despite multi-TV exposure, shows no signs yet of satiating public.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

EASTERN DIVISION — The Dallas Cowboys are overall class but if George Allen can keep collecting odd talent from other teams, Washington Redskins can threaten five-year reign. Still, have to stick with Cowboy squad strength.

CENTRAL DIVISION — Dingdong tussle between Minnesota and Detroit. Just might be best two teams in game. Choice here, on sheer solidity of performance and momentum, is Minnesota. But Detroit will still make it to play-offs on W-L record.

WESTERN DIVISION — Rising power out of San Francisco submerges other teams, particularly since Los Angeles is in throes of changing regimes. In one quick year, 49ers have made remarkable strides in building super defense and young dynasty.

NFC PLAYOFF: Under this year's set-up, the prediction is Minnesota to face Dallas and win; Detroit to challenge San Francisco and lose. That throws the conference final into frigid air of Bloomington, Minn., with the Vikings the choice to reverse last year's results and prevail over 49ers.

AMERICAN CONFERENCE

EASTERN DIVISION—Original choice of New York over Baltimore has to be revised with Namath's injury, couple of player defections. Make it the Colts to top standings again, but the long shot to watch is Miami with its young horses.

CENTRAL DIVISION—Pride of Cleveland Browns should produce rebound from last year's slump. Veteran players reacting to new coach Nick Skorich's direction, and this year the Cincinnati Bengals will be more respected. Pick is Browns.

WESTERN DIVISION—Nothing changes. Inflation still spirals, and Oakland-Kansas

City battle for supremacy continues. Raiders have held top hand four straight years. Give it to them a fifth time because of balanced squad that can withstand injury. But KC will win enough to qualify for play-offs, too.

AFC PLAYOFF: Baltimore goes out to Oakland for rematch, and this time Raiders will prevail on home grounds. Kansas City at Cleveland will make it all-West finales by overpowering Browns. That makes it those old familiar playmates, Raiders and Chiefs, for Super Bowl trip and selection here is Raiders.

SUPER BOWL

Minnesota vs. Oakland in New Orleans. Pair of one-time losers. Daring big-bomb attack and innovative defense of Raiders vs. grind-it-out offense and physical defense of Vikings. Would make for interesting matchup. The Vikings are pick as Super Bowl champs in low-scoring duel.
